Group seeks solution to school problems

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

In an effort to search for a single solution to Antioch Community High School's space and financial woes, along with the individual problems of feeder school districts, an ad hoc committee is in the planning stages. The group will look at long term planning as opposed to a quick fix.

'I think we are looking at a real long process. This isn't going to be fixed overnight.'
—Laurel Dahl, ACHS board president

With area school districts engaging in the institutional version of living "paycheck to paycheck," voters could end up facing a confusing array of referendums in the near future. The problem of shrinking resources and growing attendance projections compounded with intervillage disputes and individual school district agendas, makes long term planning for school districts nearly impossible.

"Nobody looks at the whole picture," said ACHS Board President Laurel Dahl. "It's very frustrating."

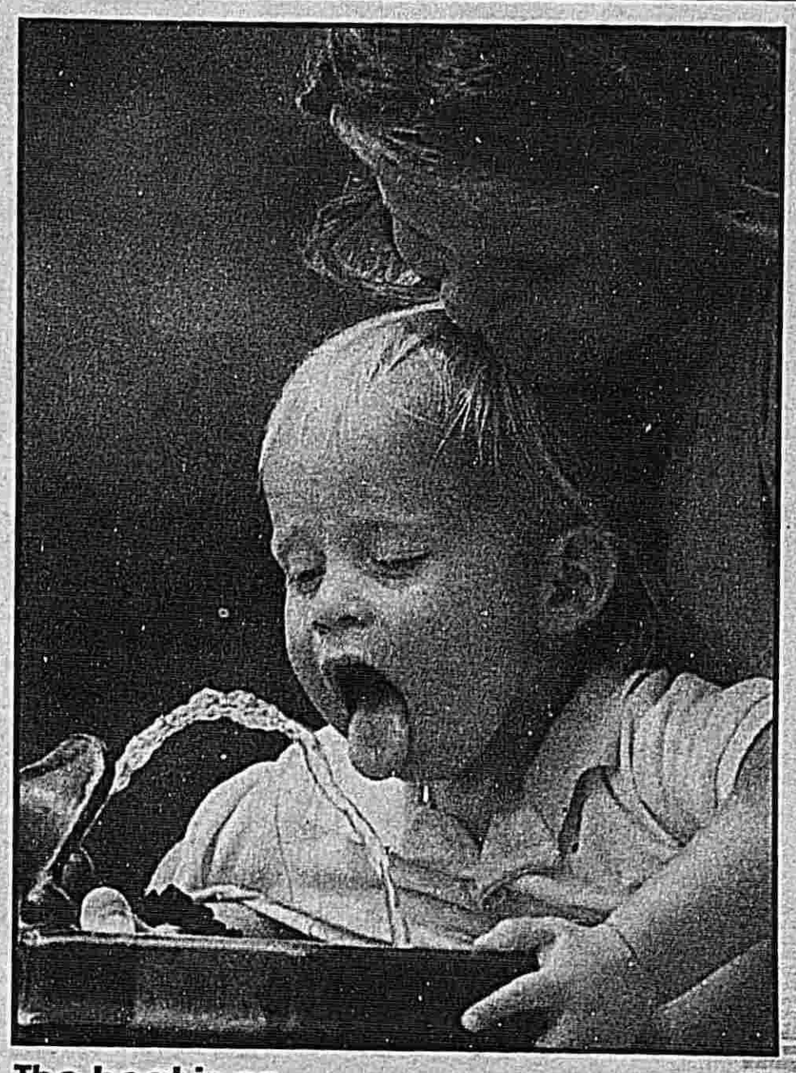

The Antioch Community High School Board of Education discussed their participation in the ad hoc committee at the last regular board meeting. As a result, ACHS Board Member Phil Delany will represent the district.

"I think we are looking at a real long process," said Dahl. "This isn't going to be fixed overnight."

The ad hoc committee is comprised of representatives from ACHS and ACHS feeder school districts along with some concerned local officials. The group, which is still in the formation process, traces its genesis to the last election when a proposal to form a unit district in Lake Villa failed.

However, ACHS board members disagree on who should actually participate on the committee. Board member Joanne Osmond feels community members should also be a part of the ad hoc committee. She believes

Antioch loses LaPlant, a colorful resident, 83

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Many residents of Antioch are saddened by the loss of Homer LaPlant, who died last weekend. LaPlant, who was active in so many Antioch institutions, touched the lives of many.

"I truly enjoyed my close relationship with Homer LaPlant," said Ted Axton, who volunteered along with LaPlant on many projects. "Our community, the Rotary Club, and the Lions Club will certainly miss his input."

Homer LaPlant

LaPlant, 83, died June 17 at Victory Lakes Continuing Care Center. He was born on the Fourth of July in 1911 and was a lifelong resident of Antioch. A self-employed mason, LaPlant retired in 1975.

"He was a mason for many years," said Axton. "He was very proud of his professionalism."

An Antioch Township Trustee for 24 years, Township Supervisor Jim Fields has nothing but praise for LaPlant. "He was an excellent board member," said Fields.

LaPlant was also a participant in many clubs and organizations in Antioch. He was a member and former president of the Antioch Lions Club, a member of the Sequoit Masonic Lodge, and a member of the Antioch Rotary Club. And, acting was in his blood.

"He absolutely loved the theater," said Axton. "He was quite the thespian." LaPlant is one of the founding members of the PM&L Theater group in Antioch as well as several other groups. But, one of his most memorable roles was during the Centennial Man contest.

New Antioch High principal believes in teamwork

ALEC JUNGE
Staff Reporter

Antioch High School's new principal is looking forward to working with teachers and students in a more direct way.

Dr. Susan Mullendore will take the helm at Antioch High. She is currently assistant superintendent of Hamilton Southeastern School Corp. in Fishers, Ind. Above anything else, she said all educational issues should benefit the students.

"I am student centered," Mullendore said. "We as educators should always do what is good for young people."

Mullendore was assistant superintendent for five years. She has been a principal, a dean of students, a guidance counselor and a teacher.

She said it was time in her career to decide whether she wanted to stay as an assistant superintendent or try something else. She said the principal's job is the one she missed the most.

"You have more direct contacts with the teachers, parents and students. Working in the central office you don't get the hands-on experiences and the daily contact you do with the high school principal position," Mullendore said.

Mullendore said she was looking for a larger high school in the Midwest. Her job goals were similiar to the objectives of Antioch's superintendent and school board.

She said she believes strongly in creating a family-type atmosphere in the school.

"I believe in a teamwork approach. You get more done as a team

Curbside recycling may expand further

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

With the discontinuation of the weekly recycling pick up at Antioch Community High School, Waste Management is expected to begin curbside recycling for its customers. However, curbside recycling may be available to other customers as well.

"We don't have any residential recycling program in Antioch," said Robert Pachura, district manager of Browning Ferris Industries (BFI) in Waukegan. "We do have a commercial program, however."

Yet, Pachura said curbside recycling could be available for subdivisions. "Contact your association presidents," said Pachura. Each subdivision using BFI has a contract for waste hauling. The contract may be modified to include recycling. For more information about BFI, call Don Powles at 623-3870.

Jenson also has some contracts in Antioch for waste hauling. "At this point, we don't have anything," said one company representative. However, with the loss of the weekly recycling, a curbside program may be under consideration at Jenson as well.

Antioch Village residents already have curbside recycling through Waste Management. The real problem is for those living in the unincorporated areas.

Rescue squad to see new chief

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Jerry Popp, the seven-year chief of the Antioch Rescue Squad has resigned from his position, although he will remain a member of the squad. Tim Osmond has been selected as the interim chief.

"He did a terrific job," said Osmond.

Topping the list of reasons why Popp resigned is a promotion to Field Superintendent at IHC Group, where Popp works. Although, Popp admits, "There are a bunch of reasons."

It is the responsibility of the chief for the general welfare and development of the squad. With 25 active members, including 19 paramedics and 6 EMTAs (or in training), the position of chief in this all volunteer squad can be a full-time job on its own.

"It is also a very busy time of year," said Osmond. With so many tourists and summer visitors in Antioch, along with the normal accidents and injuries that are part and parcel to summer time, the squad is kept pretty busy, especially on the weekends.

The squad held an interim election, in which Osmond was selected as chief. Other office holders include Dan Siemsen as new 1st Lieutenant, John Wolfram as 2nd Lieutenant, Ralph Antonelli as president, Timothy Fields as the new treasurer, and Diana Horton as the new secretary.

In addition to the summertime busy period, the squad is working on their annual fund raiser with the Lions Club. To be held on Aug. 6, the Lions Club and Rescue Squad Chicken Barbecue plans are now underway.

Auctioning off services will be a new addition to the event this year. "We always have had tangible auctions," said Osmond. This year they will also be auctioning off donated services, including free dinners, event tickets and the like.

Jaycees help send kids to Camp New Hope

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Two Antioch children and a Trevor, Wisc. child are attending Camp New Hope, courtesy of the Antioch Jaycees. The camp is a nationally recognized residential camping program which serves children and adults with developmental disabilities.

P.J. Brankin and Michael Mathews, both age 14 from Antioch, along with 8-year-old Carl Schuenke of Trevor will be attending the camp, which is located in Mattoon, Illinois. The camp provides a barrier free environment and a program similar to usual camping activities such as arts and crafts, swimming, boating, games and sports, music, nature study, outdoor living, and so much more.

The Camp New Hope project is one of the biggest projects Antioch Jaycees does. This year, as a result of its bowling fund raiser, they were able to send the same three children as last year.

Camp New Hope was first developed and continues to be governed by a group of parents. It is dedicated to meeting the needs of the disabled, as well as the families of the disabled. It was created to provide opportunities that were formerly nonexistent. The Camp has been going strong since 1954.

The camp provides opportunities for disabled persons to build friendships. For many children, their experience at Camp New Hope is the first time they have been away from home. The emphasis of the camp is on recreation and enjoyment, however self-help and socialization skills are also taught and encouraged.

In order to be admitted to Camp New Hope, camper selection is made by individual Jaycee Chapters throughout Illinois. For the past four years they have been able to send children to the camp.

The Antioch Jaycees meet the 4th Monday of every month at the Regency Inn at 7:30 p.m. Anyone interested in joining, or for more information contact Joel Johnson at 395-3111. The membership fee is $40.

Controversial apartment plan goes back to zoning

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

A controversial plan to build a 43-unit apartment building on Highview, the access road to W.C. Petty and Antioch Upper Grade schools, has been sent back to the zoning board. The zoning board denied District 34's request for rezoning after a public hearing on June 8.

The current property owner is District 34, Antioch Community Consolidated School District. The district hopes to sell the property to a developer to put up apartments. However, zoning must be changed from R-1 residential to R-5 multi-family, before anything can be done.

At least 18 residents had turned out for the public hearing opposing the rezoning. Neighbors cited traffic problems, flooding and drainage concerns, and even noise problems as a reason to deny District 34's petition. Highview, which is off Tiffany Road, dead-ends at W.C. Petty School. However, multi-family dwellings abound in the area.

In an effort to convince village board members, a petition was signed by 50 residents. While the petition was not drafted by an attorney, the Antioch Village Board accepted its legality.

"We are accepting the petition on its face," Mayor Marilyn Shineflug told the audience of mostly upset residents.

The petition would have triggered the rule which would require a two-thirds majority to overturn the planning and zoning boards rejection. However, by sending the issue back to the zoning board for reconsideration, the board is hoping approval by that governmental body will avoid the rule.

An important consideration in returning the issue to the zoning board was a letter written by District 34, elaborating on several important legal issues why the Antioch Village Board should overturn the zoning board's recommendation. Issues including the village's comprehensive plan, the surrounding zoning, and the recommendation of approval by the Antioch Village Planner Robert Silhan, were cited in the letter.

"The way I see it," Village Attorney Ken Clark said, "there are some real problems denying the petition. This area is almost entirely surrounded by multiple family dwellings. Our own expert approved this plan."

The bottom line seems to be the village is concerned School District 34 would institute legal action if the plan is ultimately rejected. "That would be two public bodies suing each other," summed up Clark.

Radakovich recaps years at ACHS

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Dr. Michael Radakovich attended his last Antioch Community High School board meeting last week as principal of the school. While he is happy to have been selected as superintendent of a school in Minooka, Ill., he also feels some sadness in leaving ACHS.

Radakovich

"I am leaving Antioch Community High School with mixed feelings," said Radakovich. "Yes, I am excited about my new endeavors as Superintendent of Minooka, but I know I will miss Antioch Community High School dearly."

Radakovich pointed specifically to the financial difficulties Antioch, as well as many other Illinois schools, have battled with since the tax cap. "Despite financial difficulties we've been able to make a difference for our students," said Radakovich. "I am excited for the future of Antioch High School."

In an effort to summarize the four years he spent at ACHS, Radakovich presented a very comprehensive report to the board. The report, which began in 1991, was completed in three phases: the current status of ACHS, the status of other schools, and where ACHS wants to be in 1996 and thereafter.

Initially, Radakovich and a number of staff committees got a sense of the current status of the school in 1991. "We identified where we were," explained Radakovich. The team then literally got on buses and visited eight other highly rated high schools in the Chicagoland metropolitan area.

Based on the information gathered, the group then presented recommendations to the ACHS school board in May of 1992. The final report card indicates what recommendations have been achieved as well as areas needing more work.

A surprising number of objectives were met by ACHS. Nevertheless, Radakovich pointed out a few areas still needing work.

"I wanted to let you know there are a few things we need to work on," he told the board. "We need to expand our clubs. We don't have enough - to get more kids off the streets. We need to continue to work to get more people to come to the high school."

Other areas he targeted for more work included curriculum integration, revision of the entire student government, creating a stronger Class program, creating a writing lab, have students report at school board meetings, and a new phone system.

Radakovich attributed the success of the past four years to a cooperative effort from teachers, administrators, the community, the school board, and the students. "This would not have been possible without the help and cooperation of everyone," said Radakovich.

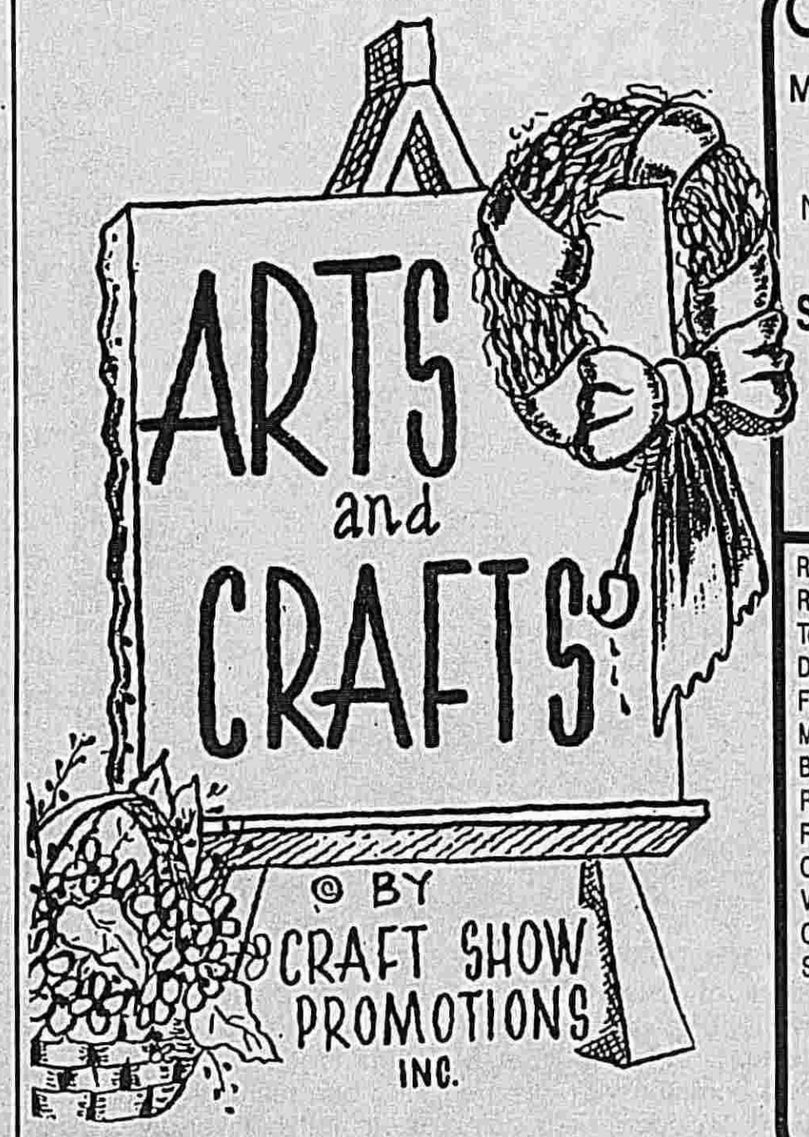

Bus transportation information for Summer school

While many Antioch Community High School students are taking the summer off, Summer School began on Monday morning. Bus transportation information should have come in the mail for registered students. If you did not receive an information packet, call the school at 395-1421.

Police Beat

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

Possession of fireworks

Jose L. Tischina, 17, of Antioch was arrested and charged with illegal possession of fireworks/exchange of fireworks on June 16. Tischina was stopped when an officer observed him making a right turn on Main Street without signaling. When the officer approached the car, some bottle rockets were observed in the back seat. Six more packages of the rockets were found in the trunk. Tischina told police he received the fireworks from a friend and had exploded several in Oak Wood Knolls. Tischina was also given a written warning for failure to signal and failure to wear a seatbelt.

Trespassing

Westly L. Whitman, 18 of Antioch and Ricky L. Johnson, 20 of Antioch were arrested for criminal trespass to land and obstruction of police on June 16. The two men refused to leave the McDonalds parking lot after being asked by security. When police arrived, they observed Whitman holding out his right arm while Johnson was using a pair of pliers to remove stitches in Whitman's arm. A large unruly crowd had gathered around the two men and police had to call for backup to disperse the group. According to the report, Whitman told police "he had nowhere else to remove the stitches but in McDonald's parking lot."

Whitman was again arrested for criminal trespass on June 17 when he returned to McDonalds. He was charged with criminal trespass to land and released on bond.

Consumption by minors

Jason A. DuPont, 18, of Grayslake and Arthur Garza, 19, of Vernon Hills were arrested for consumption of alcohol by minors on June 17. Police stopped the vehicle, driven by DuPont, for a broken tail light. After talking with DuPont, the officer detected the odor of alcohol on both men's breath. They were both charged and released on bond.

Warrant arrest

Scott R. Larson, 24, of Trevor, Wisconsin, was arrested on an outstanding warrant on June 17, after police stopped him for allegedly traveling 71 mph in a 45 mph zone. Larson was transported to Lake County Jail after being charged with speeding, and improper lane usage.

Policy for school officer decided

Will wear weapon, won't wear uniform

The Antioch Community High School board spent some time last week discussing the finer points of the new police department liaison. The officer, who will have a satellite office at the school next year, is part of the COPS Fast program, which encourages community policing.

One of the more important issues the board dealt with was whether or not the officer will carry a visible weapon. In addition, the board needed to decide if the officer should wear a police uniform at all times.

"Our recommendation, is that the officer does not wear a uniform during the day," said Principal Mike Radakovich. He said plain clothes would appear less threatening to students.

Board Member Phil Delany had some questions about this. "I do have concerns about the message we are sending," Delany said.

Specifically, Delany was concerned a plain clothed officer may send a message to students school administrators and officials are attempting to conceal the fact an officer is on the premises. Delany worried the students would interpret this to mean there is an atmosphere of secrecy at the school.

"The kids will know who he is," answered Radakovich. He went on to suggest the officer wear his uniform for the first few weeks to reinforce this.

Radakovich polled other area schools regarding uniforms and weapons. He told the board other schools in the area allow the officer to wear concealed weapons and not wear uniforms. "It is just a philosophy other schools follow," Radakovich said.

The board members approved Radakovich's recommendations, although they suggested the officer wear a uniform during DARE presentations and other official functions.

Abused dog better with good care

NEAL TUCKER
Staff Reporter

A Doberman Pinscher puppy is doing well just three weeks after being taken from its Grayslake owner, who has been charged with aggravated animal cruelty.

"The dog is doing better. It's up and running around. It's a real nice dog, too," said Lake County Animal Control Chief Leonard Hackl.

When the puppy was received by Animal Control roughly three weeks ago, it weighed 13 pounds and had a visible rib cage under its stretched skin. Now, it weighs 30 pounds and is continuing to weight gain.

The dog's owner, Charles M. Thornton, 26. of Country Faire Apartments in Grayslake, has been through his arraignment and awaits a status of attorney hearing June 30 at 9 a.m. in room C405 of the County Building in Waukegan. According to prosecutor Chris Kennedy of the Lake County State's Attorney's office, Thornton faces up to six months in prison and a $1,000 fine if convicted of the Class A misdemeanor.

The dog's squalid conditions were first discovered by Grayslake Police officer David Sprague after he responded to a complaint of a dog barking incessantly in the apartment complex near the intersection of Routes 120 and 45. After gaining entry to the apartment, Sprague found the dog in a small cage in a closed room. The cage was so small the dog could not stand fully erect. It was standing in an inch of liquefied feces and urine, which had started to decay it paws.

The dog was removed for emergency treatment, then turned over to Animal Control. Because its tendons and muscles were too weak to support the puppy's weight, a cast was temporarily placed on each leg.

Hackl estimated the puppy to be approximately four months old. He said Thornton has acted on his desire to get his dog back.

"The only problem was, he came on a bicycle. I think he intended on walking the dog back home," Hackl said.

Now, Hackl said he is awaiting a judge's decision before he releases the dog to Thornton's custody, which could happen during the June 30 court date. The bill for medical expenses and boarding for the animal has already reached $903.53.

Mrs. Letkey shows she has soul at wedding reception

Wedding memories

Once again I found myself observing a wedding at St. Peter's from the choir loft. On June 3, Deacon Frank Collette came out of retirement to marry Billy Letkey and Allison Lewis. The homily was very appropriate for the newlyweds and was based on the idea of letting each be their own individual person, accepting any differences and not spending the rest of your married life trying to transform each other into the perfect mate.

After listening to that and witnessing all that fresh young love, it made me look at my own marriage and think, "Gee, I guess 'Survival of the Fittest' is a bad attitude to have."

The wedding proceeded with love, warmth and a few glitches. Billy sailed through his vows without so much as the slightest sign of hesitation; the bride, however, had a tense moment right from the start.

When Deacon Collette asked Allison: "Do you take Billy to be your lawful wedded husband?' instead of answering with the traditional "I do," the anxiety kicked in and Allison made the grand, and I mean GRAND proclamation "YES!" Even from my perch up in the rafters, next to the ceiling fans and St. Peter himself, I clearly heard the dog-whistle pitch ricocheting off the stained glass windows.

Then we came to the exchanging of the rings. It seems that frugal Billy got a great deal on a ring for his bride-to-be, only it was a size smaller than Allison's petite finger. When the time came to express his feelings for his new bride, that circle of love wouldn't cooperate.

Billy tried with all his might to shove that precious little spherical object on the appointed finger, to no avail. Allison finally grabbed hold and gave a few tugs herself but also had no luck in this matter. Deacon Collette finally stepped in and baptized that little trouble maker with a tremendous amount of holy water, and only after a puddle began to form on the floor did the blessed thing slip down over that second knuckle. Whew! Let's get to the reception.

The reception proved even more entertaining. Before making their entrance up to the head table, the wedding party transformed themselves into The Blue Brothers, complete with dark glasses and hats. Any of us who know Betty Letkey (the groom's mother) were quickly taken aback when she too appeared, literally dancing her way up to her seat in the traditional Blues Brothers hat and glasses and playing the saxophone. What a performance she gave—the woman had soul!

We all had a great time, and the room buzzed all night about the groom's hip mom. Bill and Allison spent their much earned honeymoon in a warm, sunny climate, and Betty spent the week in hiding after realizing the whole town was talking about her one-woman show. So now I offer all the best to the new Mr. and Mrs. Letkey and—Hey, Betty, what about your own room at Footlights '95?

Skinned knees

I know you people of Antioch are probably getting a little tired of "Miss Marie" (i.e., Photo Joe) stories, but the woman is a walking tidbit. So once again I find myself with a tell-all tale just too good to pass up.

A little singing canary told me that recently the Brausam household acquired a treadmill. After the zillion nuts and bolts were put together and the piece of equipment somewhat resembled the picture on the box, daughter Jenny, friend Butch, hubby Ray and the famous Marie herself, waited with bated breath as the "on" butter was pressed, and—wa la—nothing happened!

This state-of-the-art exercise demon stood stone still. Mr. Fix-it. Ray consulted deep in his expertise and decided a new fuse would fix the ailing gadget. Losing interest, Marie went upstairs to tend to her chores while Jenny and Butch decided they too had better things to do and left the premises.

Even after the new fuse was in place, the machine stood idle and Ray himself became disinterested and returned to his garage where he felt more useful. Some time later, Marie returned to the basement, eyed the new piece of equipment, thought all was up and running and proceeded to step on the belt while pushing the buttons.

Once again, nothing. Being the determined one and rather mechanically inclined herself, she started pushing buttons, pulling levers and spinning knobs.

Oh boy! the treadmill kicked in at high speed, catching the clever one totally off guard. Down she went, face first, like a tree in a hurricane. Totally helpless, the stunned one laid there in fear for her life, knowing any moment her shirt would be caught up in the mechanism and she would end up like an old "I Love Lucy" rerun.

The entire time the beached one is lying there like a beluga whale, the belt is turning at its highest rate of speed and acting like a fresh piece of sandpaper against her unprotected knees. Seeing as her life wasn't flashing before her like some bad movie, she figured death was not imminent. The pain, however, was excruciating, so the dazed one gathered what little wit there was left in her and managed to heave her traumatized body and bruised pride off the racing machine.

She could hear voices upstairs calling her, but the injured one was just too weak (and perhaps too embarrassed) to respond. After much effort and blood loss, she managed to drag her wounded body up the stairs looking for sympathy and comfort. She relayed her traumatic ordeal to the ever compassionate Ray and instead of oozing with support and reassurance, he bolding laughed in her face and said, "Where the heck was your video camera!"

Ouch, that hurt more than the dripping knee caps.

So if anybody sees a 41-year-old woman hobbling around with bandaged knees, I know your first reaction will be to laugh yourself silly. But try to control your giddiness and offer her a reassuring nod or a pathetic—I mean sympathetic—hug. You can always laugh like the dickens when she is out of earshot.

And Marie, at your age not only should you check with your doctor before beginning any sort of exercise routine, you should also consult your owner's manual.

It's an annual affair

St. Peter's School has once again been transformed into a dignified and upscale flea market. This is the perfect opportunity to provide inexpensive furnishings, kitchen utensils and appliances for that college-bound or apartment-hunting child of yours.

Perhaps your little ones are outgrowing their clothes faster than Oshkosh can make them. Clothes are plentiful and waiting to be purchased at bargain prices.

Grandparents, need a few toys so when those darling grandchildren come to visit they will leave your collectibles alone? Well, you will find a regular Toys-R-Us with rock-bottom prices.

And what decent shopping mall doesn't have a food court? Food will be available so you can shop a while, have a bit to eat and rest your weary feet, then go out hunting for some more bargains.

This all takes place this weekend, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 22 through 25, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. So forget Gurnee Mills and Hawthorn, even with their new, falling prices. Wal-Mart can't compare to the bargains that await you at St. Peter's.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle." Dón't forget to call 395-6364.

Ministry of caring starts at Antioch United Methodist

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

As a result of the Stephen Ecumenical Program at Antioch United Methodist Church, seven Stephen Ministers were commissioned on Sunday. The new ministers will provide counseling and assistance to residents in crisis.

"The Stephen Series is an ecumenical program out of St. Louis," said Tricia Robinson, one of the groups leaders. "This is the first time we have done this."

The ministers-in-training received 50 hours of class time to learn how to help others in a time of crisis. "This can be any kind of personal or familial problem," said Robinson. The new ministers will be available to counsel clients in almost any setting, whatever is most comfortable for the person in need.

Both Robinson and Pastor Kurt Gamlin received their training in St. Louis and brought back their knowledge to train others. New ministers include Carol Maplethorpe, Carleen Wurster, Corky Trieger, Kim Chapin, Luella Anderson, Meredith Schnell, and Shelby Wais.

Because of the positive reaction of church members, plans are in the works to offer another caring ministry training in the fall. "Everybody we've talked to loves the idea," said Robinson.

There will be no fee for the counseling services and for more information or a referral call 395-1259.

Reading program has huge turnout

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Public Library's two summer reading programs are filled to capacity this year. With approximately 500 young people enrolled, organizers are finding ways to insure everyone has an opportunity to participate.

"Sign up ended on Monday," said Children's Librarian Joan Padbury. "I ran out of book bags."

Still, the library was allowing children to enroll as late as Thursday. At this point, all the programs are completely filled. Last year's turn out was 380 participants.

There are two separate programs for children, both encouraging the enjoyment of reading. The Read To Me program is for ages 3 to reading age. In this program, parents agree to read five books a week to their youngsters, for a total of 30 by the end of the program.

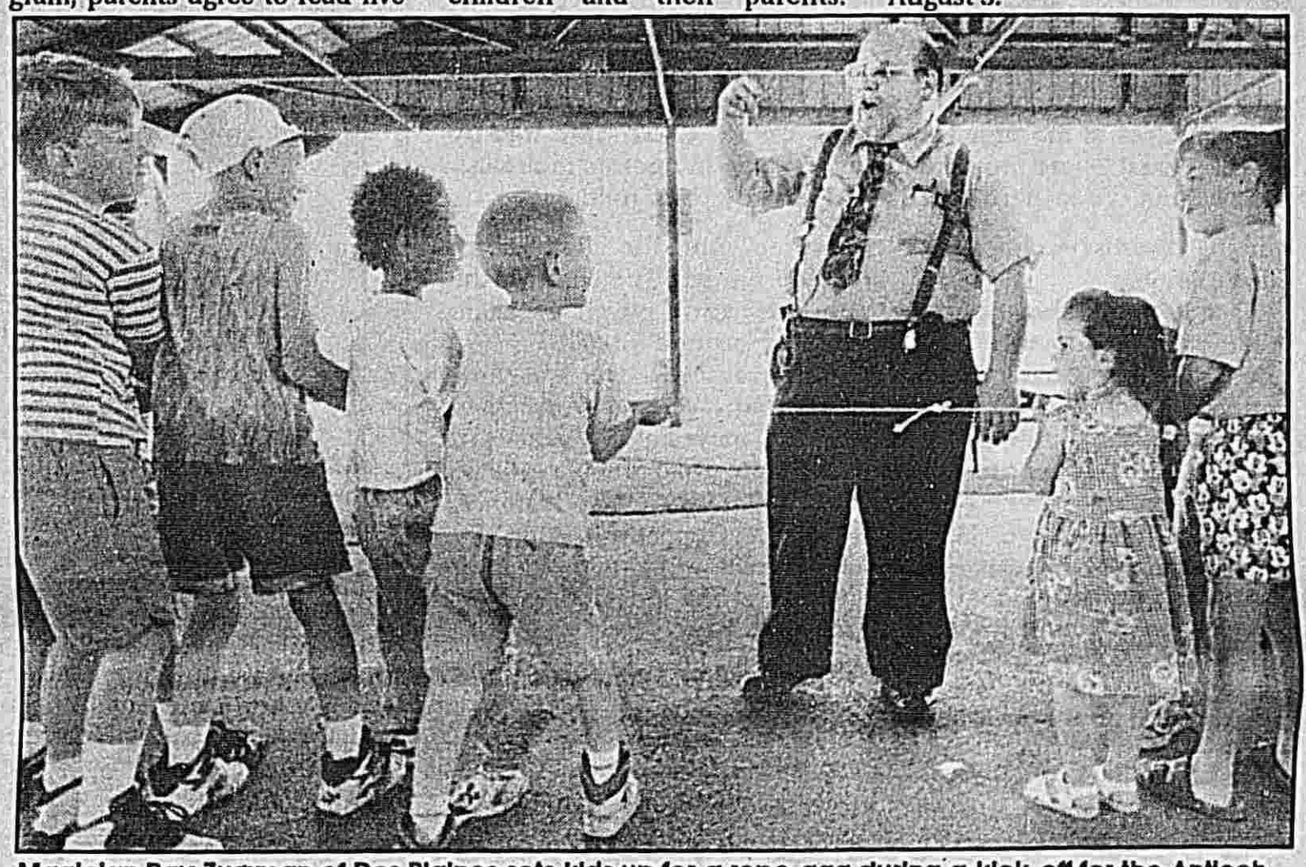

"Each week when the (parents) come in to get their books, we stamp their cards," said Padbury. In this way, a record of the number of books read is kept and allows the child to be eligible for prizes.

School age readers participate in the Reading Club. In this program, the young people make a contract with Padbury regarding how many books they will read in a week. Again, as the youngsters reach their goal, they become eligible for prizes.

But, reading is only a part of the program. Weekly Disney movies, games, "campfire" story time, art programs, book reports, hobby happenings, teddy-bear picnics, and so much more make the programs attractive to both children and their parents. Participation in the extra activities are limited to those in the program, and some of the extras also have a 50 youngster limit. Sign up sheets for the activities are in the library.

Prizes donated by local merchants help encourage kids to keep on reading. The first game will be to name the teddy bear donated by Ben Franklin. The bear, which can be found in the library display case, is dressed in the unofficial summer reading camp uniform. As matter of fact, Padbury believes visiting schools wearing the camp uniform, helped generate the overwhelming interest in the programs. Whatever it was, it surely worked.

The programs kicked off on Monday with a magic show at Williams Park. The program will officially end with two parties on August 3.

Marina owner now official 'captain,' back in towing business

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

While most people were enjoying Easter dinner with their families or attending church service with their loved ones, a Fox Lake marina owner was busy working towards becoming a certified captain.

Pete Jakstas Jr. and Pete Jakstas Sr. are now certified captains. The operators of the only tow service on the Chain were told by the U.S. Coast Guard they could not continue to operate their business without a captain's license. — Photo by Todd Heisler

Pete Jakstas and his son Pete Jr. knew they had to attend a private U.S. Coast Guard training captains boat course if they wanted to tow boats on the Chain O' Lakes like they'd been doing for the past 42 years.

Several months ago, Jakstas was approached by the Coast Guard who notified him that they had received a complaint from someone who called the Guard's Burr Ridge office and told them the Mineola Marina owner didn't have a captain's license. Coast Guard officials told Jakstas he had to cease towing boats immediately. "I was out of business for about three months," said Jakstas about his towing service.

Jakstas asked if there was any grandfather clause which says that he could continue since he'd been doing it for nearly four and one-half decades. The Coast Guard told him either he could defend himself at their headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio, or he could go to school, take an exam and hope to get his captain's license.

He agreed to do this, and so did his son, but as it turned out, the venture was not a piece of cake.

The men each spent about 70 hours in the class room, studying and doing homework, in what Jakstas describes as "brutal." And the class wasn't cheap either. The cost for the course and physical exam totaled around $1,000.

The entire ordeal was time consuming. Jakstas explained before they could even start school, they had to apply with the U.S. Coast Guard for clearance. Then they applied and hoped for an opening at the school. After that, they had to take drug tests and had to have physicals.

Some of the subjects the students learned through the rigorous training included first aid, fire fighting, navigation and safety.

Since the class was held in Elk Grove Village, commuting back and forth was not feasible, so the two stayed at a nearby hotel and studied, studied, and studied some more.

The test he and his son took was given by a private firm hired by the government, explained Jakstas. The two both passed with flying colors. "We're back in business!" exclaimed the happy captain.

The chairman of the Fox Waterway Agency, Dr. William Dam is just as happy. "The crisis is solved," said Dr. Dam. When Dam found out Jakstas couldn't tow any more water craft, he became understandably concerned. "We didn't have anyone (else) to tow boats," said Dam.

The Fox Lake Police and Fire Departments are no doubt equally relieved. For years Jakstas and his one and only boat on the entire Chain O' Lakes equipped to fight fires 24 hours a day have assisted firefighters.

Police have also used the service of the Mineola Marina for help in getting to Crabapple Island in case of emergencies, burglaries, etc. Jakstas also assists police with towing impounded and stolen boats.

And of course he will continue to use the service to hook up disabled boats, and pull them to safety.

New sidewalks for Antioch

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Village Board has approved an authorization for the village engineer to draft bids and specifications for new sidewalks in the downtown area. The walkways would be installed on the east side of Lake Street to Orchard and Orchard to the McDonald's Restaurant.

"Right now, we are talking about getting one side done," said Trustee Dorothy Larson. "The east side is where the crosswalk is. We have no sidewalk now and it is dangerous."

The cost of the new sidewalks is expected to be between $10,000 and $15,000. "That would finish off the corner," said Larson.

Trustee Wayne Foresta voiced some concerns about the decision to put the sidewalks on the east side. "I thought we are going to put it on the west side because of the grade differential," said Foresta.

"If we were to put it on the west said, it would go nowhere," said Village Administrator Tim Wells. "There is a little bit of grade differential near the phone company," he admitted.

The board agreed to check to see if the elevation would be appropriate.

LaPlant

"It was the cutest act," said Axton. "The folks really loved it."

In the 3-minute skit, LaPlant performed his lip-sync act to Maurice Chevalier's hit, "Yes I remember it well," from the 1940 musical hit "Gigi." His performance propelled him into the winning position and he was crowned Antioch's Centennial Man during the Centennial Celebration in 1992.

LaPlant was also inducted into Antioch's Hall of Fame for the many contributions he made to the village. He played a large role in the development of Antioch parks and he was a leader at the Antioch Aqua Center.

Residents of Antioch will miss LaPlant, referred to as Pierre by friends and club associates, for his colorful personality and generosity of spirit. He was buried on Tuesday in Hillside Cemetery.

communities need to become involved so residents can "own" the plans and concepts. She specifically directed her remarks to Antioch residents, as an example for a need for community participation.

"They were the ones who resisted our efforts at Polley Field," said Osmond.

Dahl, however, feels, particularly in the formation stages, participation in the group should remain limited. Dahl pointed out residents from all three communities, Antioch, Lake Villa, and Lindenhurst, have resisted planning efforts.

"There were no votes all over the place," said Dahl. "Where are all those interested people tonight?"

Regardless of who is on the committee or even who will be in control, the committee members will face a daunting task. Many individual school district projects have been put on hold because of the unit district proposal in April. Boards played a waiting game with needed referendums because of the uncertainty of exactly which students would be attending what school. And, even after the unit district defeat, it is possible Lake Villa's District 41 will attempt another unit plan in the future.

than as individuals. I take more of a collaborative approach. I believe teachers are professionals and want to take some ownership of the school," Mullendore said.

Mullendore replaces Dr. Michael Radakovich. She was praised by new Superintendent Dr. Dennis Hockney.

"I believe she will bring a very personable approach to the job," Hockney said. "She is easy to like, easy to talk to and comes very highly recommended."

Mullendore was appointed last Thursday by the Antioch High School Board. She was in Antioch touring the school and getting acquainted with the staff and the area.

Lakeland Newspapers, ACHS team up for athletics

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Lakeland Newspapers and Antioch Community High School are teaming up together to help support the Antioch Athletic Department.

During a month-long subscription drive, Lakeland Newspapers will donate $3 of each new or renewed subscription to the Antioch Athletic Department.

According to Lakeland Marketing Coordinator Alice Wegener, the win-win situation will benefit both the community newspaper and the Antioch High Athletic Department.

"We're looking to help the school raise funds for its athletic department," Wegener pointed out.

New and current subscribers can renew their subscriptions for the next year for $24.50. Seniors can receive a subscription discount for $22.50. Lakeland Newspapers will be contacting current subscribers throughout July.

Antioch Athletic Director Jim Kafer welcomed the fund-raising project.

"We're looking forward to this helping the paper and helping us," Kafer said.

He said the funds would be allocated for a specific program to benefit both girls and boys athletics. A 3-on-3 basketball tournament held earlier this spring, for example, helped buy new basketballs for Antioch's Athletic Department.

'Depending on how much we take in, we would earmark it for a specific purpose as opposed to the general fund. Hopefully, we can spread it out over a variety of activities.'

Antioch Community High School
Athletic Director

"Depending on how much we take in, we would earmark it for a specific purpose as opposed to the general fund," Kafer said. "Hopefully, we can spread it out over a variety of activities."

Those hoping to subscribe or renew their subscriptions in this fund-raising effort should contact Lakeland Newspapers at 223-8161.

In addition, Kafer noted Antioch Athletics will be implementing a major change in its $150 fee to participate in athletics. Although the fee will remain at $150, Kafer said student athletes who participate in three sports will not be charged for the third sport.

Also, families who have more than one child participating in Antioch athletics will not have to pay for more than three sports.

"The most a family would pay is for three sports," Kafer said. "I'd like to cut it down even more, but this will provide some relief."

A Travelers post 3 wins, prepare for LV

The Antioch Travelers A Team beat Gurnee 6-0, and then collected 16 hits in a 14-3 win against Fox Valley before losing an error-filled game to McHenry.

The Travelers A Team league record now stands at 7-3, going into a heavy schedule of upcoming games.

Ryan Clutts pitched a one-hit game against Gurnee. Supporting Clutts at the plate was Chris Gaulin with a three-run homer. Dan Shaunessey had a two-run triple, and Ken Cichon added two hits in the victory.

Strong pitching, defense and hitting were the total package in the Fox Valley win, but Antioch looked like a different team in the loss to McHenry.

Coach Steve Gaulin said he hopes his A Travelers can bounce back in upcoming games and play consistent baseball.

Antioch did just that against Richmond as the A Travelers were 8-6 victors.

"It was a real good game," Gaulin noted. "This is probably the best 2-11 team we'll ever face. They played us tough." Nine of Richmond's 11 losses were by two runs or less.

The win improved Antioch's record to 8-3 before the team faced rival Lake Villa Wednesday. "We're just going to play hard and let the chips fall where they may," Gaulin said of the Antioch-Lake Villa match up.

Home games start at 6 p.m. at Antioch Upper Grade School. Antioch will play host to the American Amateur Baseball Congress Tournament July 26 to Aug. 1.

Antioch Travelers B Team zooming to quick start

The Antioch Travelers B Team is off to a quick 5-3-1 start.

The B squad has been led by lefty pitcher Nick Cullen and his impressive 4-0 start. Cullen's battery mate Bill Adams has been keen behind the plate by calling the pitches.

Antioch Manager Dan Burke credits his team's early success to timely hitting and executing the fundamentals on defense.

The offense has been led by second baseman Daniel Pasiewicz and his .727 on-base percentage, .609 batting average and 11 stolen bases.

Belting homers for the Antioch B Team are infielder/outfielder Scott Bartelson (2) and first baseman Jay Westergaard (3).

Also contributing to the offense are shortstop/pitcher Quinn Gooch, catcher/outfielder Nick Balen, pitcher/outfielder Lance Mehaffey, J.T. Litchfield and Tom Parrish.

Overall, the team's batting average is .333 and the team's on-base percentage is .488.

The Antioch Traveling B Team's next few games are at home at Antioch Upper Grade School. All games begin at 6 p.m. June 23, 26 and 28 and July 3, 14 and 15.

Hepfner ends Spitz streak at Wilmot Speedway

Todd Hepfner of Sussex broke Dennis Spitz modified win streak at 10 scoring to the 20-lap feature win June 17 at Toft Auto Racing's Wilmot Speedway.

Dave Moulis of Johnsburg, overcame engine problems earlier in the night to win his fourth 25-lap sprint feature.

Rob Olson of Lake Villa, gave himself an early Father's Day gift by winning his fourth 12-lap IMCA modified main.

Steve Reidel Jr. of Chicago, became the fourth different mini-sprint feature winner by taking the 15-lap headliner.

Tim Cox broke the first Spitz streak by leading 10 laps of the modified main. Spitz previously held the point in all 80 feature circuits. Cautions on laps four and nine kept Hepfner close to Cox with Spitz staying within striking distance.

On lap 11, Hepfner put his Glenn Hepfner Inc./Behling Circle Track Equipment No. 28 to the inside coming out of turn two. Hepfner powered into the lead after a brief wheel to wheel battle, going on to score the win.

"I just was waiting for Tim to make a little bobble in the turn as it was getting a little slick," said Hepfner. "It happened coming out of two and I was able to take advantage of it. This is a great Father's Day present for me to give my dad (Glenn) after he flipped last week. I dedicate the win to him."

Dave Bliss popped a wheelie at the start of the spring main, briefly holding the lead out of turn two. Gary Zobel, who started inside row two, powered to the outside overtaking the point down the backstretch. Zobel maintained the lead until five laps remained. Moulis shot to the outside taking the lead at the stripe.

The only feature yellow cam on the next lap, but it failed to phase Moulis.

"This crew did a lot of work," said Moulis, who revealed they found an oil leak during the time trails and replaced a head gasket after setting fast time. "I saw where Gary and Al were running and decided the high line was the way to go. This win means a lot because of the extra effort my crew had to put in."

Jeff Holtz took the early IMCA modified feature lead. On lap four, Olson put his Midwest Motorcoach/Hillary and Assocs./Benson Electric Monte Carlo No. 95 to the outside down the front stretch. Holtz and Olson ran three laps side by side around the one-third mile clay oval. Olson powered in front just prior to a yellow with five laps to go.

"This is a great Father's Day gift," said Olson. "I've been with my wife, so the crew had to do all of the work this week. They did a great job. We're really getting this kind of car figured out."

A single night of action is scheduled for "Wisconsin's Clay Center of Speed," this weekend. On June 24, there will be sprints, IMCA modifieds, mini-sprints and modifieds.

The following weekend will be a Bud Lite Holiday Special. On Saturday, July 1 will be Winker Engineering of Kenosha Night. Sprints, IMCA modifieds, mini-sprints and modifieds are on the program.

On Sunday, July 1, will be the first appearance of the season by the North American Sportsman Series. Rascal Outlaw Sprints and mini-modifieds will join the full-bodied stock cars.

Lightning win President's Cup; Turbos tie; Eagles battle

The Lindenhurst Lightning became the 1995 President's Cup champions with a 5-1 victory over Hanover Park Hawks.

To get to the championship game, the Lightning defeated Homewood-Flossmoor 2-1 in overtime and then beat St. Charles Power 3-1.

The Lightning were led by outstanding defensive play by Jon Mendelke, Josh Boller, Jay Sturt, Matt Nolan and Casey Cybul with Nick Placko playing goalie. The midfield was controlled with strong play by Kevin Nelson, Scott Bender, Kevin Earl, Joe Hladnik and Joel Dellaria.

The potent offense was led by Matt Miclea, Mark Sanderson, Peter Gedvilas and Andy Lyon.

Coaches Jim Lyon and Ron Placko said they have been very pleased with the players' effort to date as they currently are 7-0 in league play in the NISL Red Division.

The Lightning also had success in the Memorial Day Park Ridge Tournament, taking third place by defeating a team from Cedarburg, Wis., 3-0 and are very much looking forward to the Watermelon Tournament July 7, 8 and 9 in Rockford, where some of the teams the Lightning will play are ClubeAlto DePinheiros from Sao Paulo, Brazil, and the Croatian Eagles for New Berlin, Wis.

Turbos

The Lindenhurst U-12 Turbos traveled to Roscoe to play the Hononegah Lions.

The Lions found the mark early to score first in the game. The Turbos followed with a goal of their own scored by right wing Danny Blagojevic. The Lions scored again to pull ahead at the half.

The Turbos, led by defenders Steve Coletti, Sean Beaudry and Michael Marchetti, shut out the Lions' offense in the second half. Goalie Jason Myers added to the defensive effort, stopping a shot on a direct kick.

The Turbos tied the game in the final minutes, with Jason Adams knocking in a rebound off a direct kick by Adam Schuster.

The Turbos have two final games next weekend, the first a road game against Mt. Prospect on Saturday. The final game of the season is at home Sunday at Polley Field, where the Turbos will take on the St. Charles Challengers.

Royal Eagles

The Lindenhurst Royal Eagles played the Glendale Heights' American Eagles to a 1-2 loss.

The Royal Eagles were happy to end the first half 0-0.

Adam Jordan had nine saves in goal. The second half belonged to the American Eagles. With good ball control and precise passing they scored twice in the half.

Jordan scored the only Royal Eagle goal with a penalty kick. Alex Hofeldt had four saves in goal the second half.

Power

The (U014) Lindenhurst Power defeated the Arlington Aces 2-0 to conclude their IWSL spring season. It was the third time these two teamshave met, and Lindenhurst was able to winall three games.

The first goal of the game was set up by Sarah Richardson, who lofted a high arcing shot over the outstretched arms of the Arlington goalie. The keeper was able to get her fingers on the ball to deflect it away, but Jourdan Phillips was following up on the play and was able tobang home the rebound.

The second Power goal was scored by Jamie Wismer, who deked around the Arlington keeper after taking a pass from Nicci Estep.

The Power defense once again was strong, with fine play coming from Katie Anderson, Jenny Barbera, Kristen Gamlin and Cara Robinson.

The Power finished their season in second place with a 7-2-1 record. The Power will conclude its spring season participating in the Rockford Watermelon Tournament this weekend.

Lightning

The (U-12) Lindenhurst Lightning finished its spring season in style with a 2-0 victory over NSA. Aggressive play in every corner of the field was the key, as they put in two second-half goals to go with the shutout.

With this victory, the Lightning finish at 6-2-2 placing them near, the top of the U-12 B Division.

Rockets

The (U-10) Lindenhurst Rockets ended their spring season with an impressive 4-1 win over visiting Northbrook.

The Rockets took the lead late in the first half when Stephanie Willding scored off a shot from Kristina Gopp that hit the crossbar. Willding was in position and scored on a headball.

Northbrook scored minutes later and the game was tied at halftime.

The Rockets came out ready to play in the second half. The Rockets scored early in the secon dhalf on a goal scored by Kristina Gopp. Robyn Mortenson assisted on the goal.

Gopp continued the Rockets scoring by putting the ball into the Northbrook goal for her second goal of the game. Her goal came unassisted.

The game's final goal came off a corner kick for Gopp. Gopp placed the ball in front of the Northbrook net, where Elizabeth Martin kicked the ball that deflected off a Northbrook player into the goal.

Strong play by the defensive team of Lauren Cole, Lori Knupp, Tanya Earl, Robyn Mortenson, Becky McBrady and Catherine Hodge kept the Northbrook offense in check for most of the game.

Other Rocker players turning in impressive performances were Anne Heath, Kacie Anderson, Lissa Coby and Miranda Korbal.

The Rockets ended their season with a record of 5-3-2 and will be playing in the Rockford Watermelon Soccer Tournament this weekend.

MAC softball team participates in national qualifier

The Bullets competed in conference games within the North Suburban Fast Pitch League while the M.A.C. traveled to the Quad Cities to participate in the national qualifier.

Bullets

The (U-14) Bullets hosted Northbrook in their conference opener and were easily defeated when they gave away 10 runs in the first inning that contributed to a 19-4 loss.

The Bullets bounced back in the first game of a Saturday double-header with a 12-9 victory over visiting Lincolnwood. Megs Kotlarz pitched six innings en route to the win.

The second game was another giveaway victory to the visitors by the final score of 19-5.

This week's two losing games were pitched by Gina Seedoff and Jenny Frederick. Outstanding outfield defense was played by Sarah Beykrich.

MAC

The (U-18) M.A.C. team participated in the national qualifier.

It was attended by 21 teams from all over the country, including teams from San Diego, Oklahoma, Missouri, Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin, with many teams from throughout Illinois.

The Lindenhurst M.A.C. did well in the national tournament. After receiving a first round bye, M.A.C. defeated the Quad City Hustle. M.A.C. put together a seven-hit, nine-run attack in the fifth inning to jump from a 5-2 deficit to an eventual 12-5 victory.

The third round game against the Milan Phillies went nearly the same way. M.A.C. fell behind 2-0 before scoring runs in four of the last five innings, leading to a 9-5 win.

The Oklahoma team was too much for the M.A.C. team as Oklahoma won 8-0 en route to the tournament championship.

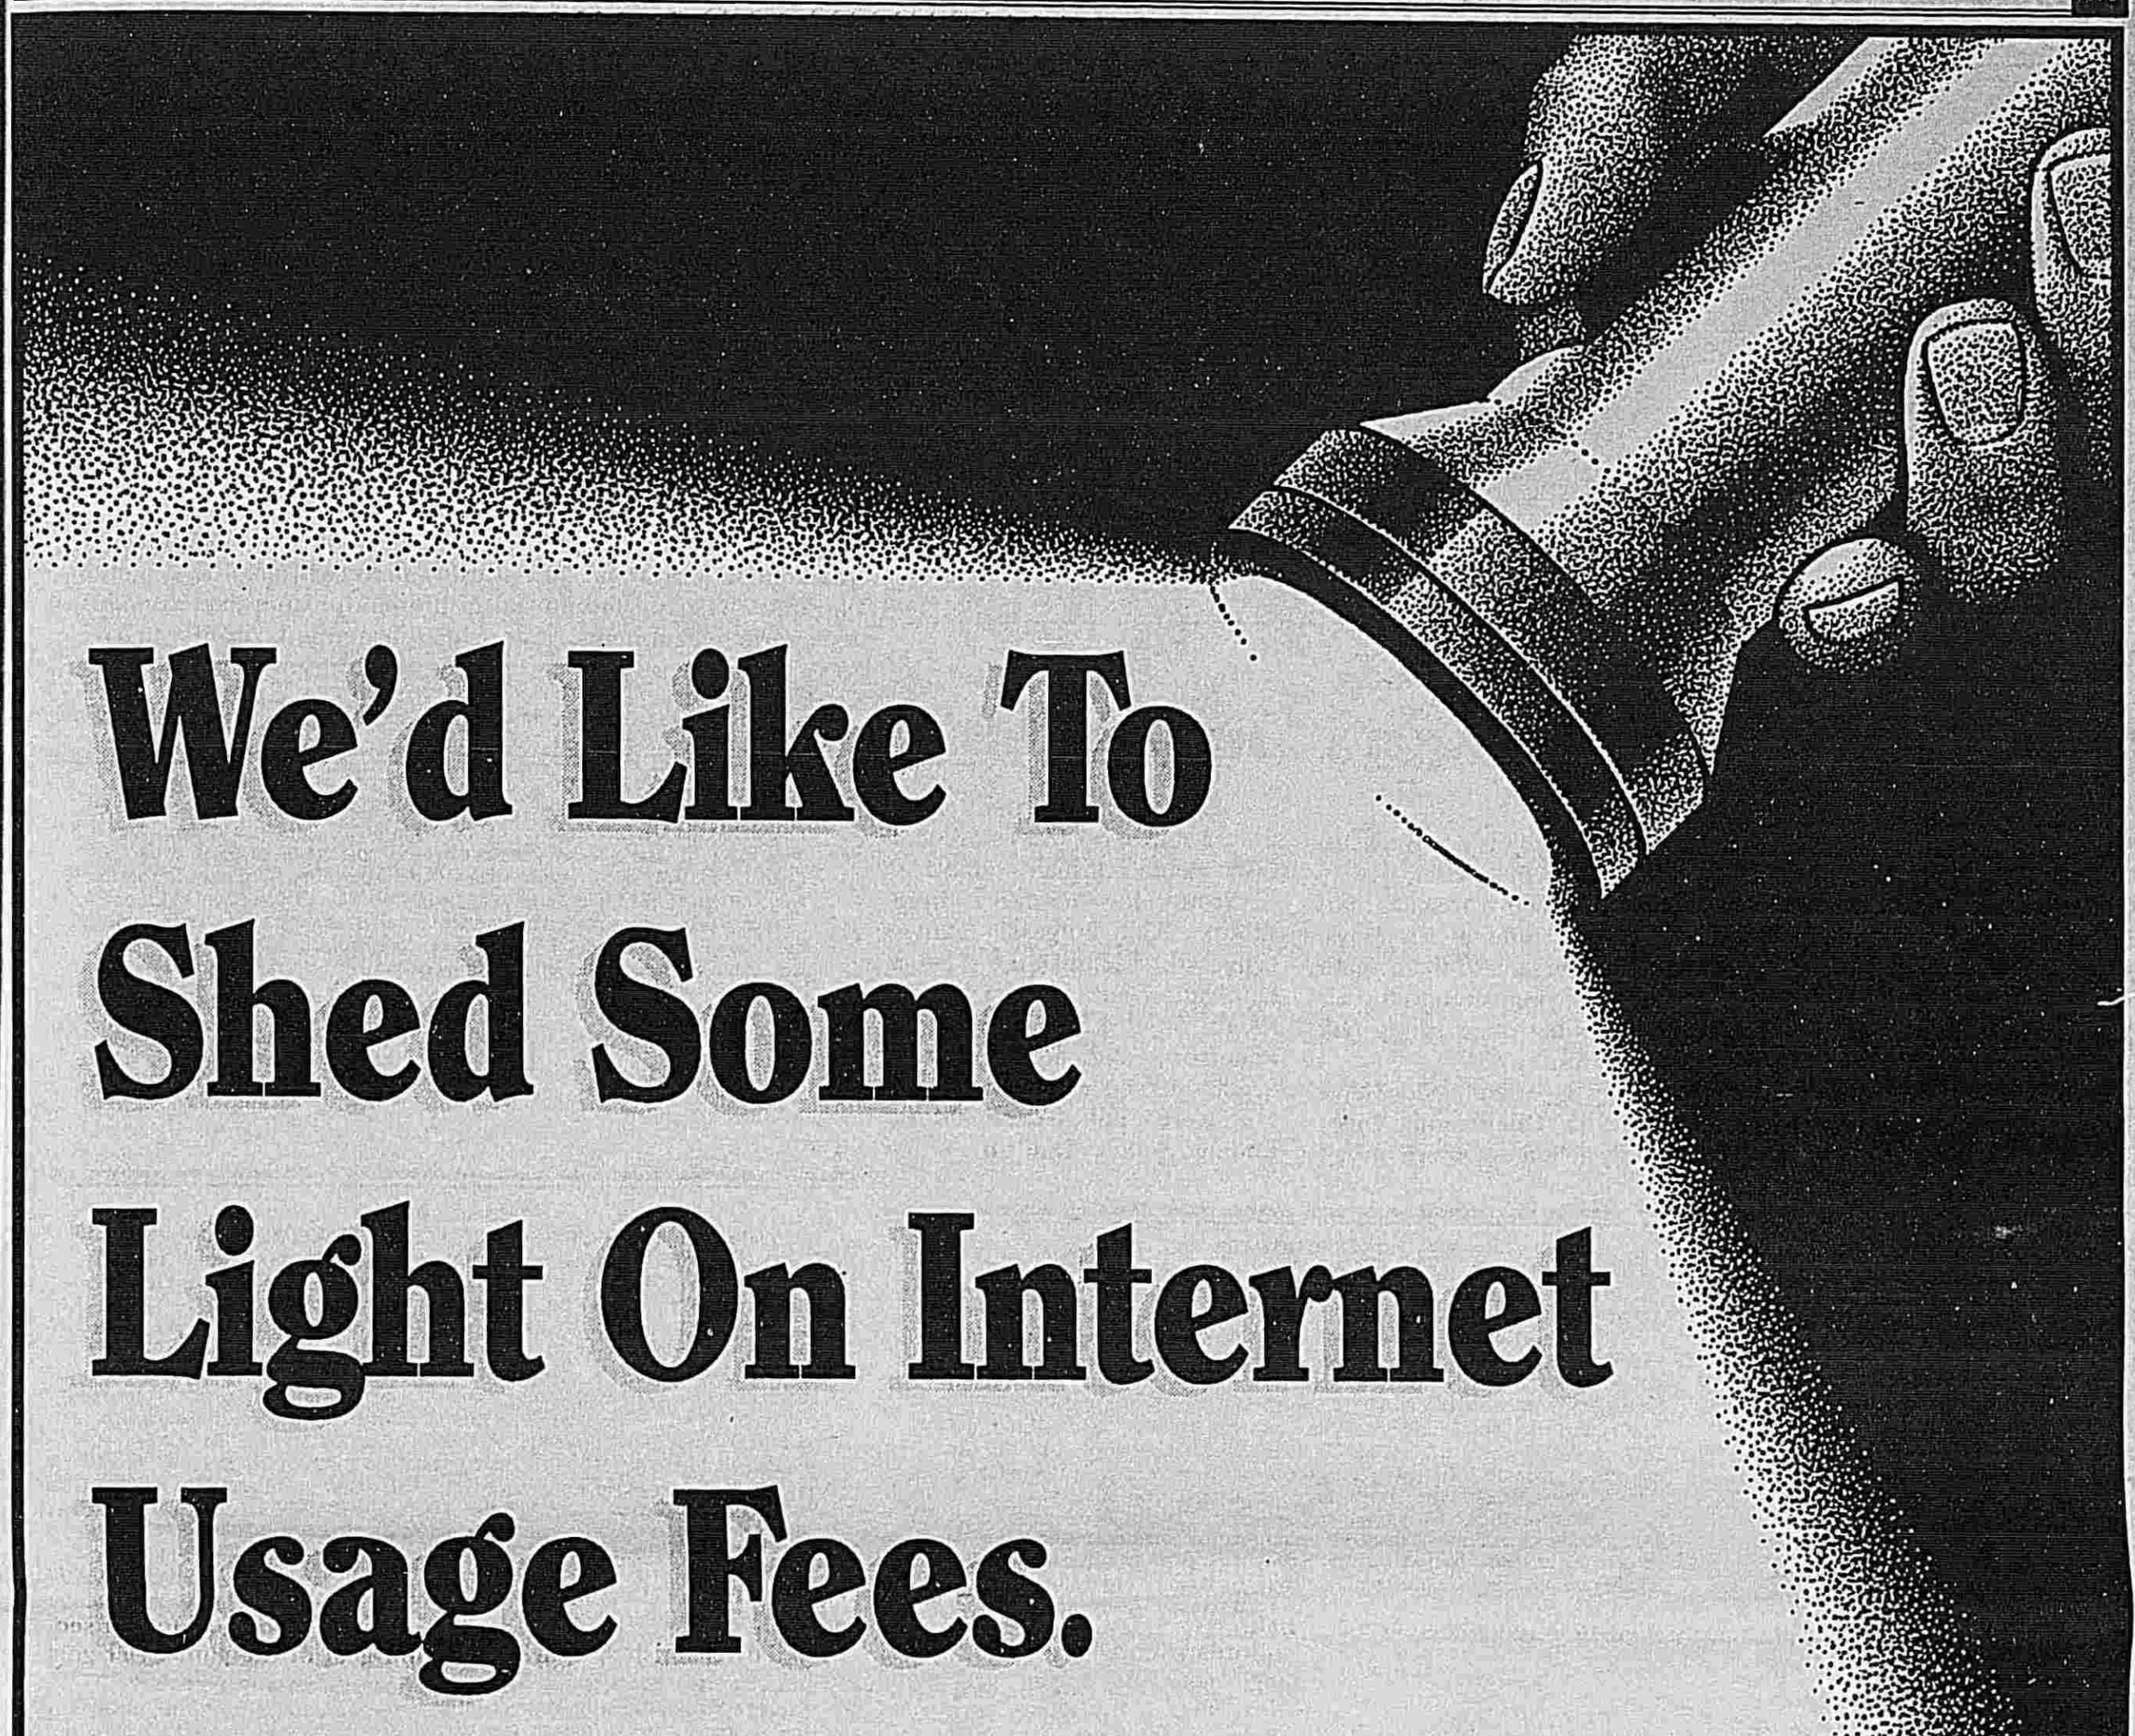

A disappointing final loss was to the Tulsa Mustangs with a 5-0 score.

Winning tournament pitchers were Jenny Beatty and Beth Stolarik. Defensive highlights were provided by Kathy Benes and Holly Simons. The offensive attack was led by Jenny Bremer, Kathy Benes, Courtney Konrath and Cindy Walter.

The Bullets, Magic and Raiders will be in Burbank this weekend while the M.A.C. travels to another national qualifier in Rockford. The Bullets also have a conference game in Wilmette this week.

Gaston retiring, accepts Oak Brook leadership position

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor In Chief

Rear Admiral Mack C. Gaston will retire from naval service following a change of command ceremony June 28 at Naval Training Center Great Lakes. Rear Admiral Patricia A. Tracey will relieve him as commander of the world's largest naval training center.

Gaston has accepted a position with WMX Technologies, Inc., a waste management company in Oak Brook. Gaston will be vice president for leadership resources.

"The 30 plus years of Navy experience has developed my skills and leadership, I think that was a key selling point," Gaston said of his new position. "I want to stay in the Chicagoland area because of the professional dynamics, courtesy and commitment evident in people of the area."

Tracey reports to Great Lakes from her previous assignment at the Pentagon where she served as the director of manpower and personnel on the staff of the Joint Chiefs.

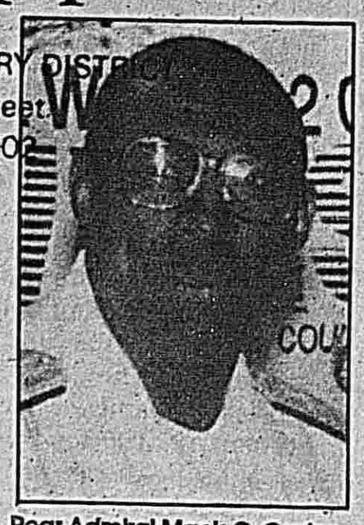

Gaston says his greatest achievement during his three year tenure at Great Lakes has been his ability to take every challenge as an opportunity. He also lauded the military and civilian work force at Great Lakes for their exceptional abilities.

"I came to Great Lakes with three objectives— to embrace the base, to embrace the community and to cause the community and the base to embrace each other," Gaston said. "It is an on-going process but I believe we are headed in that direction and that we (Navy personnel) have been the catalyst to cause community factions to embrace each other."

Gaston has been active in several community organizations including the Lake County Economic Development Commission, the Combined Federal Campaign, and United Way. "I hope to stay involved with these organizations as much as possible," Gaston said.

During his tenure Gaston oversaw the Base Closure and Realignment Commission's investigation into the closure of naval training centers and the ultimate decision to consolidate all naval training at Great Lakes. As well, the addition of several construction projects to accommodate the center's growth.

Hundreds rally to 'take back the night'

The Seventh Annual "Take Back the Night" March and Rally for the Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault (LaCASA) brought hundreds to downtown Waukegan to make a stand against violence.

"The purpose of Take Back the Night is for people to become more aware of how prominent this problem is throughout the country," said Lynn Haines, development assistant of LaCASA. "People are hush-hush about these topics and they need to be brought out into the open."

Presenters at the June 16 rally included Lake County State's Attorney Michael J. Waller, who gave an impacting message about violence in our society and called for Americans to stop idolizing and making folk heroes of individuals who are perpetrators of violent crime.

Other's speaking included: survivors of sexual violence, Margie Garcia, victim's witness counselor for the state's attorney and Torrie Flink, executive director of LaCASA.

LaCASA has just secured a parcel of land on Old Grand Ave. in Gurnee to build a new facility. "We've been searching for a site for several years," said Haines. "We hope to break ground within six weeks."

The new facility will offer the agency an opportunity to expand services and provide greater privacy for clients. Haines stressed it will not be a residential facility.

Grayslake considers fair amusement tax

NEAL TUCKER
Staff Reporter

After learning the Village of Grayslake is considering an amusement tax for the Lake County Fair, the Lake County Fair Association Board has appealed to its mailing list to keep it from 'being taxed out of existence.'

Fair officials could not comment on the details of why the post card was sent or on the details of the amusement tax itself, but Grayslake Village Manager Mike Ellis did explain the village's plans to possibly increase revenues. He did stress, however, that the village is merely looking at imposing an amusement tax. He is not sure how the issue became construed as anything else past the planning stages.

"The draft ordinance was looked at by the finance committee. They said it conceptually makes sense to the village. It was translated into we (the village) have already imposed the tax and would vote on it this week," Ellis said.

Ellis said the village has been discussing the a special use permit for the fairgrounds, which has been incorporated in the village for 11 years, for more than a year now and dialogue with the fair board has been very open.

The amusement tax, which was recommended at 10 percent of gross revenues from any admission charge, was presented to the fair board and their comments were requested. Ellis said the next thing to happen was the post card mailing, which warned the readers the amusement tax may put the fair out of business and make it move to another town. Ellis feels the fairgrounds are an amenity the village does not want to lose and that is why comments from the fair board were requested.

"Our state statute allows us to do this tomorrow. We don't have to ask anybody. That is not the way we want to do this," Ellis said.

Ellis understands the fair board probably does not want a tax imposed. He believes the dialogue between the fair board and the village will be ongoing for months, but hopes to have some level of amusement tax set for any village entity it applies to by the end of this year.

County strikes good deal for juvenile justice

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

A township assessor and a commercial real estate professional believe Lake County got a bargain on the $3.1 million deal to purchase a former medical facility and transform it into a 48-bed juvenile justice center.

County Board Chairman Robert Depke spearheaded the negotiations to purchase the 16-acre Lutheran General Recovery Center in Vernon Township. In addition to the juvenile justice center, the facility will also house beds for women enrolled in the Women's Residential Services program, which assists mothers who have chemical dependency problems.

Depke orchestrated the deal with Lutheran General over a period of several months. The original asking price for the property and building was more than $4 million, but Depke secured the deal for $3.1 million. The County will also spend approximately $3 million more in renovations and building expansions for the detention center.

Vernon Township Assessor Gary Raupp had assessed the facility before it applied for tax-exempt status in 1989.

Raupp said the assessed valuation of the property and building was $840,270 in 1988 which would have given it an approximate market value of $2.5 million at the time.

"It's a nice area because of the forest preserve," Raupp said. "They've done a few things and some remodeling since then. Right now, it's off the tax rolls. We don't assess it anymore."

College of Lake County board installs new student trustee

Dorian Short of Round Lake was installed as the 1996-97 student trustee at a College of Lake County Board of Trustees Meeting. She will replace outgoing student trustee Jana E. Lengi, whom the board recognized with a resolution.

Short is the mother of two children who is pursuing a certificate in office systems technology and office automation and an associate degree in arts at CLC. She is a member and vice-president of Phi Theta Kappa at CLC and a writer for the Chronicle, the college's student newspaper.

In other business, the board approved a 3.8 percent increase in salaries for fiscal year 1996 for non-union classified, specialist, professional and administrative staff. The board also approved a 4.5 percent increase for these employee groups in flexible compensation for medical insurance and other benefits.

Salaries for the three vice-presidents were also increased by 3.8 percent for fiscal year 1996 and are as follows: $95,205 for Arthur Kent, vice-president for administrative affairs; $94,289 for Gretchen Naff, vice-president of educational affairs; and $89,750 for Charles Schulze, vice-president of development-executive director of the college foundation.

Compensation for faculty will be considered at a future board meeting. Talks with the faculty union are underway.

Board chairman James Lumber announced that the June 26 board meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at NBD of Highland Park (513 Central) and the July board meeting will be held July 26 at 5 p.m. at CLC's Grayslake campus. Lumber also presented retiring English faculty member Camille Taylor with a resolution honoring her 19 years of service at the college. He also acknowledged the services of Edmond Kanwischer of Antioch, an art instructor and a founding faculty member, who has retired after 26 years of teaching.

In the business portion of the meeting, the board adopted a resolution requesting the Illinois Community College Board (ICCB) to approve life safety projects at CLC totaling $1.2 million. The funds will be used to alter and repair various college facilities. The ICCB approval will allow the college to continue extending the tax levy for life safety purposes.

In contract matters, the board authorized the administration to enter into a five-year agreement with the Board of Control of the Lake County High Schools Technology Campus (formerly Area Vocational Center) to create a joint telephone system and provide telephone services and equipment to the technology campus beginning July 1. The total cost to the college for this project is estimated at $75,920. In exchange, the technology campus will pay CLC an annual fee of $6,895, which will be increased annually by the percentage increase in the Consumer Price Index.

In purchasing, the board approved project modifications to the Lakeshore Campus expansion project with Boller Construction Co. for $41,492, bringing the total contract to $3.56 million. The need for the adjustments was discovered following excavation work at the former Globe department store building. In a related matter, the board awarded a contract to Electronic Switching Systems, Inc. of Naperville to install a wiring and cabling system at Lakeshore at a cost of $44,623. The board also approved the purchase of 81 Nikon binocular microscopes from Fryer Co. of Huntley, Ill., for $79,146 to replace old equipment in various science laboratories on the Grayslake and Lakeshore campuses.

Addressing benefits issues, the board approved a 4.5 percent increase in medical insurance and the Medicare supplemental insurance for the college's self-funded medical plan for fiscal year 1996. The monthly premium for single medical coverage was increased from $205 to $214, and family coverage from $562 to $487. The Medicare supplement was increased from $115 to $120. Monthly dental insurance premiums were not increased for fiscal year 1996. Finally, the board approved renewing a contract with Excess Health, Inc. to provide medical stop loss coverage in fiscal year 1996 at a premium of $95,000.

Plan heads back to zoning

ANTIOCH—After being rejected by the Antioch Planning and Zoning Board, a petition from School District 34 to have some property rezoned multi-family has been sent back for reconsideration. Antioch District 34 is the current owner of the property located on Hillside Drive and hope to sell it to a developer. The Antioch Village Board avoided taking any action on the issue, which came before the board on Monday night and instead sent the petition back to the planning and zoning board. Neighbors of the proposed 43-unit apartment building object to the project citing traffic problems as their number one concern.

New post office possible

GRAYSLAKE—A petition drive to get a new post office for Grayslake may have a chance to make a difference with postal officials, according to Grayslake Postmaster Jared Johnson. Grayslake is on a tentative list to have a 20,000 square-foot post office constructed in fiscal year 1998. The current 8,000 square-foot post office was built in 1971 when the population in the 60030 zip code was one-third of what it is today.

Robber slices pizza driver

FOX LAKE—A delivery driver continued to hold onto a pizza pie even while he was being cut with a knife by a robber who demanded his cash. Last Saturday night close to midnight, a 28-year old Gus Pizza employee reported he had been the victim of a knife-wielding thief, after he attempted to make a delivery to the 30 block of Ridgeland Ave. in Fox Lake. As soon as the delivery man got out of his vehicle with the pizza, he was attacked from behind by an assailant who advised the driver to give up $150. The delivery driver gave officers a description of the man who robbed him—he's between 5 foot 9 inches and 5 foot 10 inches; 185 pounds; in his late 20s; dark brown curly hair; wearing a black hood and a dark, long sleeved shirt and blue jeans. Fox Lake police notified all state police departments to be on the look out for the offender.

Village gearing up for festival

MUNDELEIN—Mundelein is gearing up for their annual Mundelein Community Days Festival which will be held Thursday, June 29 through Tuesday, July 4. The theme for this year's festival is "The Best Ever," and will involve a parade, carnival, Mundelein Munch, Mundelein Firemen's Pancake Breakfast, an arts and craft fair and many new exciting activities for the entire family. A new addition to this year's festival is the Bell Communications Tent , where Bell is providing cellular phones for emergency phone calls or for children to call their parents to come pick them up. Another addition is the two new Munch participants Ruby Tuesdays and Brothers' Ribs.

Band brings music downtown

LIBERTYVILLE—Summertime brings many residents outside to enjoy the weather. Now, you can enjoy the weather and take in a little music in Libertyville with the Libertyville Village Band on Thursday evenings. The band recreates the tradition of outdoor programs of popular music with programming sure to please all ages. The concerts take place in the Rose Garden located in Cook Park, one mile north of Route 176 on Milwaukee Ave. The concerts take place on Thursdays at 7 p.m., with the first concert beginning on June 22 through July 27. The Independence Day Concert will be held in Butler Lake Park on the Fourth of July and there will be no concert on July 6.

New toy store helps children

VERNON HILLS—Vernon Hills will be the Lake County site for a new-concept retail chain designed to entertain, educate, and challenge infants through age 12. Different from the traditional toy store, "Noodle Kidoodle" will offer a wide range of toys, books and computer software designed to stimulate the intellectual development of children. Based in New York, the retail chain is opening up six stores in the Chicagoland Area. The Vernon Hills location is expected to open in August in RiverTree Court.

Village gets court OK

HAWTHORN WOODS—The Village of Hawthorn Woods received a favorable court order to raze an abandoned home in the village. According to village counsel, the order came as a surprise because the courts generally rule in favor of the property owner. The abandoned home has become an eyesore in the upscale community and invites young children to gain access to the structure. The property owners who have since moved out of Hawthorn Woods have until June 30 to file an appeal.

Village settles with developer

LAKE ZURICH—Village officials have confirmed they have reached agreement with a developer who had sued to build a subdivision. Terrestris Development Company of Oak Brook has agreed to adjust its plans in exchange for dropping its $6.7 million breach of contract lawsuit and having its development approved in July, officials said. Village and Terrestris officials have met in closed session the past month, and made the deal this week, according to Trustee Jim Weakly. He said Terrestris agreed to reduce the number of townhouses from 142 to 85 and increase the number of single-family homes from 99 to 126. Terrestris officials could not be reached for comment.

Sticker sting

PARK CITY—Park City Mayor Rob Allen believes an enforcement of city sticker regulations project is a success. Almost 300 citations, 294 to be exact, were issued at apartment complexes and mobile home parks. This could result in $7,350 in fines.

Sewer plant may expand

LINDENHURST—Trustees may have to find nearly $5 million to expand the current sewer plant to accommodate new development. The village has applied for low interest state loans. The Lindenhurst Sanitary District has agreed to supply $1 million of the funds. The decision was made to begin the process because it will take nearly two years to construct. The board has some revenue available in tap on fees. The plan is to increase the capacity of the plant from 1.5 million to 2 million gallons per minute.

Trustees limit mayor's power

LAKE ZURICH—A majority of board of trustee members effectively limited Mayor Deborah A. Vasels power. Her veto against the formation of a committee of trustees was reversed by four trustees, three who were elected in April. This will limit Vasels to only voting at the board level on a limited number of occasions, including breaking tie votes. Vasels said the move was a political attack against her, and went against the campaign for open government by Trustees Jim Weakly, John G. Tolomei and Jim Krischke.

Union willing to listen

ROUND LAKE— Education Association of Round Lake has offered to listen to any new offers the school may present. However, they have no intention of negotiating directly with the board, according to Union President Kim Kirby. Kirby said he feels the union has the strongest position in the arbitration between the union and the school board. He said district stands to lose a considerable amount of money in arbitration. There are 31 issues that remain from the strike settlement in December. Both sides have until Aug. 4 to dispute claims made by the other side.

Chamber schedules 5K

GRAYSLAKE—In conjunction with the Grayslake Centennial Celebration, the Grayslake Area Chamber of Commerce is hosting its fourth annual 5K Fun Run/Walk. Any runner in Lake County is encouraged to pre-register for the 8 a.m. event, scheduled to begin and end at the Grayslake High School track. To pre-register, call the Chamber at 223-6888.

Justice

When the facility was on the tax rolls, Raupp said it paid $47,979 in taxes in 1988, $45,889 in 1987, $44,419 in 1986 and $42,402 in 1985. Raupp said approximately 65 to 70 percent of those taxes went directly to the local grade school and high school districts.

Stevenson High School Superintendent Richard DuFour said the high school will fulfill its obligations to educate students generated by the center, but he noted that juvenile offenders will not be attending Stevenson High School.

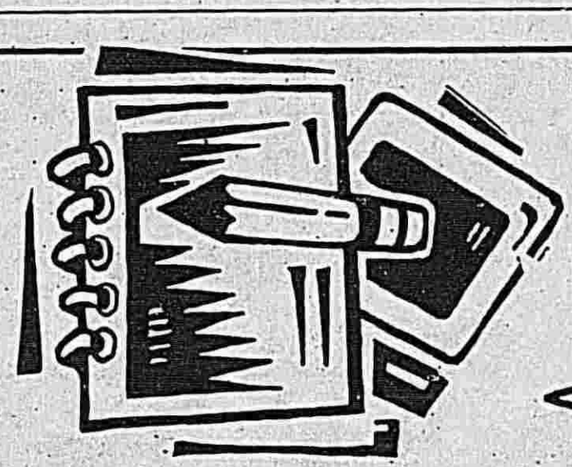

"Juvenile offenders will be taught at the center, not here," DuFour said. "We will hire instructors who will teach at the facility."

DuFour also said he will press the county in guaranteeing the high school district will be reimbursed 100 percent for educating the additional students.

David Cole, a commercial real estate professional from Highland Park, said he was interested in developing the property, but certain restrictions and covenants on the bonds issued to fund the construction of the original building prevented the building from being sold in the open market. Only not-for-profit entities, such as the county, could strike a deal with Lutheran General.

But through Cole's calculations of the land value, building worth and furnishings inside the building, Cole said the entire site could be worth between $5.5 and $6 million in the open market.

County officials are still inspecting the site and will have the property and buildings appraised. Questions still remain whether the county would be able to build or make additions because much of the site falls on wetlands and floodplains.

Thanks for care

I'd like to thank a local animal hospital for their compassion in taking care of an injured mud turtle we found. They went beyond the call of duty to take care of this injured animal, and we thank them.

Watch the carrier

I'm calling in response to mail problems in the June 9 Lipservice. We had the same problem in Round Lake Park. Ours was with credit cards or anything that looked like a check. We reported it to the Postmaster, who said he would watch over this and we haven't had a problem since, so it must've been the local carrier.

Citizens pay price

I have the June 9 issue of Lakeland in front of me and I agree with the letter to the editor where a gentleman writes about opposing a new store on Rollins Rd. near Nicole. It's horrendous here at our subdivision with traffic. Now they want to give us more problems. I think the administration should be changed again. These politicians are getting away with murder and it's costing citizens time and money.

Take them in

In response to the person who commented about smoking and drug-taking students in Calvary School not being allowed to attend, if I'm right, Calvary is a Christian school and I believe that Christians follow the teachings of Jesus. According to my Bible, these are the exact people that were attracted to Jesus and who Jesus wanted. It would make more sense that you do want children who need help to be in Calvary School. Maybe you should double-check your Bible, or not be in Calvary School, because you're not following the Christian way.

Get out

Where is the village clerk in Round Lake Heights? Doesn't she have to attend meetings? There's nobody taking minutes. What's the problem? Doesn't she want the office? Then resign and get out!

We're all suffering

In response to the comments 'Kids suffering' regarding Round Lake schools, I want to let this person know that your comments are incorrect. Mary Davis stood by the office at McGee School screaming at the principal because the principal allowed the children to be outside under shade trees because it was so hot during the 92-degree weather last week. School could have been let out, but Mary Davis said absolutely not. It's not the teachers making kids stay in school, it's Mary Davis. I'd like to add also that at Village School, one of the classrooms was 101-degrees. My child was taken out of school and went to the beach and had a good time. Thanks to Mary Davis, we all have to suffer!

Fine 'em all!

I'm overjoyed that Gurnee is going to fine people who let their pets foul their neighbors' lawns. We live in Southridge and have a lot of bozos here who drag their oversized lummoxes out of their cars so the dogs can use the neighbors' yards. I'll be ready with binoculars and a note pad. I hope they all get the $500 fine, they deserve it!

Build, build, build

Just wanting to comment on the article in the Wauconda Leader about Wansheck and Amrich being a little upset that the four other board members passed an ordinance on not building within 75-feet next to wetlands. If I remember correctly, Wansheck, Amrich and Mayor Eschenbauch voted for every development to come near the village. If it was up to them, they'd let builders build on Bangs Lake. Just build, build, build. Don't they ever read the records of these people?

Privatize the system

There's one thing that bugs me about the Round Lake kids still going to school because of the two-month teacher's strike. I work in the private sector and belong to a union. If I go on strike, I take the chance of getting replaced and losing the wages for the time I'm on strike. In the teacher's case, they go on strike, which is really a vacation, but they make up their strike days due to the state's requirement of 176 days of school. Fine, if the teachers want to be union workers, let them punch a clock. If we really want teachers and administrators to serve the kids and parents, let's privatize the entire public school system.

Priority not right

I was just reading the article about the two Wauconda auto dealers that were taking their chances by offering cars for the first golfer to score a hole in one at the second annual Wauconda Boosters golf outing. I think it's ridiculous. Why don't they offer the cars to the valedictorian and salutatorian of the graduating class instead of just someone who can make a hole in one? This world is going crazy!

Ed. note: While Boehmer Chevrolet is offering a car in a charity golf outing, it has also donated a car for the past four years to a Wauconda High School graduate who stayed active and interested in school their senior year.

Don't be buffaloed

I'm a Wauconda resident and I urge the village board to not let Cambridge homes buffalo them into doing things that will hurt the community in the long run. Let's not have what happened to the Burnside area by Rte. 12 and 176.

Stop rudeness

I think the village of Lake Zurich is despicable in allowing neighbors to run water onto other people's property. This should not be allowed. Not only is it rude to the neighbors, but they aren't observing zoning laws observed in other communities. This is causing fights between neighbors.

On right track

In answer to 'Get village back,' I have to differ with this person. I think Round Lake Beach is doing very well. We have storm sewers and retention ponds that stop a lot of flooding. Everything is peaceful and people aren't afraid to speak up, as they were under the previous mayor. The 10th District has been refinanced, saving thousands of dollars. I think we're on the right track and going back to the old administration would be a big mistake.

Over the weekend, due to a bet with my girlfriend, she dared me that I wouldn't be man enough to let her put makeup on me and dress me like a girl. I thought it was stupid and that men don't do that, etc. Let's just say that I did enjoy it, and I found nothing wrong with it. I felt completely different beforehand but now I see things in a different light. Afterwards, you can go back to being your big, bad macho self. I think if all these big, bad macho bullies in the world took time to get in touch with their feminine side that there'd be a lot less killing and destructiveness. I look forward to doing this again. I think everyone should try it, even just once.

Five historic covered bridges remain in Illinois

"The Bridges of Madison County" could be filmed in Illinois if they'd change the title to "The Bridges of Shelby, Sangamon, Henderson, Randolph and Bureau Counties."

There are five historic covered bridges remaining in Illinois. All are significant enough to be listed on the National Register of Historic Places, and all were built to carry horse-drawn wagon traffic over this state's rivers and streams. Two other covered bridges in Illinois were destroyed by arson—the Washington St. Bridge in Sangamon County in December 1977 and the Wolf Covered Bridge in Knox County in August 1994.

There were more than 200 covered bridges in Illinois during the 1800s, and between 1830 and 1880 such wooden trussed structures were preferred for bridges in this state. Covered bridges offered several advantages over other methods of construction, the most important being that the roof and siding protected the bridge's wooden support system from the elements, much as the roof and siding on a house protects its contents. Covered bridges sheltered many a traveler from sudden storms. In addition, cattle often could not be driven across open bridges, but they readily crossed covered bridges; early settlers claimed the covered bridges reminded cattle of the barns in which they normally found food and shelter.

The Thompson Mill Covered Bridge crosses the Kaskaskia River one-half mile north of Cowden and 2.5 miles east of Ill. Rte. 128 in Shelby County. The bridge was built in 1867 a short distance from Lillie's Mill on a major highway from Springfield through Taylorville to Effingham. The bridge may have been named for a previous bridge at or near the site beside which stood a mill owned by John Thompson, who claimed the surrounding land in 1839. It has also been called the Dry Point Bridge for the township in which it is located. Shelby County appropriated $2,000 for the bridge and later added $500 for roofing and siding. It has an overall length of 160 feet with a covered span of 103 feet. The original timbers are still intact, and the roof and the roof and siding have been restored.

Sugar Creek Covered Bridge crosses Sugar Creek about three-quarters of a mile west of I-55 and three miles south of the Lake Springfield Bridge in Sangamon County. It was built around 1880 by Thomas Black, and has a 60-foot clear span. Sugar Creek Covered Bridge was restored in 1965 following passage of a state law requiring covered bridge maintenance. Further work is being done now with funds from the Intermodal Surface Transportation Enhancement Act (ISTEA) grant program.

The Oquawka Wagon Bridge crosses Henderson Creek about 2.5 miles south of Oquawka. It was built by Jacob Allaman at the site of a previous structure known as the Eames Bridge on land claimed by one of Henderson County's first settlers, James Ryason. Allaman built barns and bridges in Pennsylvania before he moved in 1858 to a home four miles east of Oquawka, and he likely built other bridges in the area. In service for 68 years, the Oquawka

The age of chivalry beckons weekend warriors

For a limited time, time travel will be possible for those with a little imagination and a desire for out-of-the-ordinary entertainment.

Talented artists and craftsmen have once again carved a piece of Elizabethan England out of a niche in southern Wisconsin. Return with them now to those exciting days of yesteryear (with the welcome addition of modern plumbing and health standards), . . . when knights were bold and there really wasn't much on cable . . .

The Bristol Renaissance Faire invites time travelers to a bigger and better adventure each weekend beginning June 24. Visitors will find an expanded park with more food and more fun.

"We have a brand new stage, a couple of different food shops and a lot of demonstrations," said publicist Laura Davis. "The front gate has been moved so the pond is now a portion of the fair."

New displays include a working forge, coin pressing and the English Military Guild. For dirty fun, there's a brand new mud pit. The art and artistry of the Renaissance period will tempt visitors with the sights and sounds of a festive age. For shoppers, 15 new craft vendors will offer unique creations, and all shops are now equipped with electronic credit card registers. New this year is the Remembrance Shop, offering not only Renaissance Faire souvenirs, but many items reminiscent of the era.

inviting spot for picnickers and those simply wishing to relax on a bench. Spectator sports run the gamut from jousting knights, royal parades, and a variety of continuous entertainment on 12 open air stages and on the village streets. Comics, jugglers, balladeers, wretches and wenches roam the grounds with enthusiastic diversions. The grande dame herself, Queen Elizabeth, will make periodic appearances accompanied by her royal court.

"There are more performers and more areas for activities and interaction to happen," said Davis.

Kids will find two new rides to challenge the imagination. The Butterfly ride features a hand painted canopy over chairs shaped like butterflies which gently swoop around and up and down on a carousal. Leonardo da Vinci's Flying Machine takes kids on a ride through the air as they glide around a center pole.

Ethnic tastes will be rewarded with international offerings like calzone, gyros and Danish ice cream.

"Everyone who participates takes great pride in what they do," said Davis. "They devote a lot of time to make it fun for families. There's something for everybody."

Lords and ladies are invited to take a step back in time (quite a few, actually — it's a long way to the 16th century) to the state line for an historic adventure in the land of magical medieval make-believe. Those making the carriage ride from the south should steer for I-94 and follow Exit 1 at Russell Rd. Travelers from northbound I-94 should exit at Highway Q and proceed along the frontage road for about 2 miles. Signs will direct drivers to the gateway.

Bridges

Wagon Bridge was given to the State of Illinois in 1935 when the road was relocated and a new bridge built 300 feet downstream. The bridge is 104 feet long, and all structural members were made of hand hewn native black walnut. The bridge was restored in 1982 following a flood, and the restoration work won a Historic Preservation and Cultural Enhancement Award from the U.S. Dept. of Transportation.

Mary's River Covered Bridge crosses the Little Mary's River about four miles north of Chester and along the southeast side of Ill. Rte. 150. The bridge was built in 1854 of hand-hewn white oak timber and was in constant use through 1930. Construction was financed through proceeds of a toll road between Chester and Bremen known as the Randolph County Plank Rd., which the bridge carried over the Little Mary's River. A vital link in the road, the bridge aided the passage of farm products from the area to the busy river port of Chester. The structure is 86 feet long and rests on its original stone abutments. The bridge is located on land that was presented to the State of Illinois, and was restored in 1954.

The Red Covered Bridge crosses Bureau Creek 1.25 miles north of I-80 and half a mile west of Ill. Rte. 26 near Princeton. Demand for the bridge began in 1862, and the Bureau County Board of Supervisors responded to the demand by appointing a bridge building committee. Selected by a meeting of Bureau County residents at a meeting on March 7, 1863, the members of the Union Bridge Committee oversaw the construction and financing of the structure. The bridge was completed in 1863 at a cost of $3,148 and features a 95-foot main span resting on masonry piers. It was built to serve highway traffic on a major road between Peoria and Galena. A sing on each end advised everyone of the rules governing use of the bridge: "Five dollars fine for driving more than 12 horses, mules or cattle at one time or for leading any beast faster than a walk on or across this bridge."

The first covered bridge to be built in Illinois was probably constructed in 1827 at Carrollton in Greene County, while the last to be built was the Greenbush Covered Bridge in Warren County, built in the late 1890s. After the mid-1800s, Illinoisans increasingly preferred iron trussed bridges, and many of the covered bridges were probably replaced with iron ones. Under terms of a law passed in 1963 by the Illinois General Assembly, all of Illinois' covered bridges are now maintained by the Ill. Dept. of Transportation.

LIFE'S A BEAR

DONNA ABEAR

Natural born politician with an agenda

Those kooky politicians—you never know what they're going to do next. And just when we thought we knew old Bob Dole (that crabby old soul), he surprises us by "forgetting" about his Republican presidential aspirations and concentrating instead on a new career direction: movie and music critic.

Yes, suddenly Bob has been all over the news, telling everyone what he thinks about everything from The Lion King to Natural Born Killers (isn't that the same movie?), as well as his objections to obscene/violent lyrics in music, especially rap. Of course, Bob forgot the most important prerequisite for becoming a critic—you should actually watch or listen to the movie or music you are criticizing.

Actually, Bob was so eager to begin his career as a critic that he just figured he'd get to that later, and no one would be the wiser. Darn it if one of his big-mouth aides didn't let the cat out of the bag. This aide admitted that old Bob Dole had not seen most of the movies he mentioned, nor had he heard the majority of the music. Details, details.

Well, I figure if Senator Dole, who doesn't know what he's talking about, can be a critic, so can I. People sometimes tell me I don't know what I'm talking about, either (usually my teenage sons), so I guess that's as good a testimonial as any. What follows is a list of my opinions on various movies at the theater or on video (note: these opinions are not the opinions of this newspaper, nor should they be considered to have any redeeming social value—which probably qualifies them as "entertainment":

1. Interview With the Vampire —If you can get past the blood, there are two excellent reasons to watch this movie. a. Tom Cruise and Brad Pitt; b. Tom Cruise and Brad Pitt. Warning: Gives the impression that all vampires are good-looking.

2. Dumb and Dumber — Forrest Gump is a genius compared to these two natural born idiots on a senseless, silly joy ride. Warning: traveling toilet humor.

3. Natural Born Killers — "dumb and dumber" on a senseless, violent joy ride. If you let your kids watch this, then you, too, are "dumb and dumber." Warning: Juliette Lewis makes Madonna seem normal.

4. Forrest Gump —A thoroughly entertaining movie about a guy with the dumbest luck you have ever seen. Bring the kiddies. Warning: Shrimp will never be the same.

5. Disclosure —Another Michael Douglas movie where he plays a married man who lets an "aggressive" single woman have her way with him and then afterwards he whines that it's not his fault. That's what they all say, Michael. Warning: Features heavy breathing and Demi Moore without pantyhose.

6. The Client —A fantasy about a lawyer who actually takes on an adolescent client with no money. Warning: May cause children to believe that lawyers are free.

7. Die Hard With a Vengeance—If you can't figure out this is a violent movie just by the title, perhaps you should try "Hooked on Phonics."

8. The Lion King —An animated movie about the "circle of life," which means: First you make the movie, then you make the toys, then you merchandise the movie and the toys, then you count your profits and you scream "we are all filthy rich," then you tell the IRS you were just kidding about the rich part, and your accountants do your taxes so it looks like you made no profits.

9. Jurassic Park—same as the above, with dinosaurs.

There you have it—my politically unbiased movie opinions, which is more than you can say for old Bob Dole. Not only that, but this whole issue of politicians as movie critics makes me wonder what's next— maybe Newt Gingrich as Dan Rather's anchor partner? Perhaps Newt will interview Connie Chung. "Now, Connie, just between you and me—what do you really think of Dan? Off the record, of course.".

Good food

Outdoor grilling can be 'Skinny'

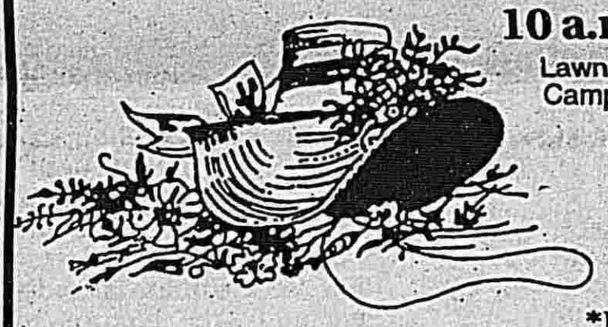

CLAUDIA M. LENART
Regional Editor

"Grilling is by far the most popular cooking method because it combines a sense of picnic and party. It is an informal, exhibitive and communal type of cooking where everyone can share in and enjoy the flashes, sizzles, aromas and expectation of a feast," according to Barbara Grunes, best-selling cookbook author. But grilling doesn't have to be high fat. Grunes' newest title, "Skinny Grilling," is a collection of more than 100 low fat recipes for grilling meats, fish, poultry, vegetables and desert. Following is one of the collection.

Grilled Portobello Mushrooms
Marinade
1 cup balsamic vinegar or red wine vinegar
1/2 cup water or vegetable stock
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 lemon, sliced
2 bay leaves
1 teaspoon fresh oregano or 1/2 teaspoon dried
1 teaspoon fresh basil, or 1/2 teaspoon dried
Mushrooms
4 Portobello mushrooms, about 1 pound
Non-stick cooking spray

First prepare the marinade. Mix all marinade ingredients in a shallow bowl. Clean mushrooms and remove stems. (Chop and reserve stems for salad or a stuffed mushroom dish.) Put mushrooms in marinade and let stand for an hour. Turn mushrooms once or twice. Drain. Spray grill rack and place it on grid side over ashen-hot coals. Grill mushrooms about 2 minutes on each side. Remove mushrooms, cut into strips and serve a few slices on individual plates garnished with grilled green onions and/or cherry tomatoes.

Belize
Reefs, Ruins, Jaguars and Jungles
by JIM WARNKEN,
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

We've all heard of the primitive tropical paradise undiscovered by tourists. But usually they've been well-discovered by the time we find out about them, or they're half way around the world and well out of our budget.

Guess what? If you hurry, there's one only 750 miles from Miami. In fact, if you've been to Cancun, you were almost there.

I'm referring to the country of Belize. If that name doesn't sound like any that appeared on your High School geography test, it's because Belize was known as British Honduras until 1981.

Let's get the boring facts out of the way first. Belize is located just below the Yucatan peninsula of Mexico on the Caribbean coast of Central America. It's a member of the British Commonwealth and as such, it is the only English speaking country in Central America, though you're liable to hear Maya, Carifuna and even Creole also spoken.

Belize has not been totally devoid of outside visitors. Many Scuba divers have enjoyed its unspoiled 175 mile long barrier reef, second only to Australia's, and the mysterious "Blue Hole", a large crater in the ocean floor.

Recently eco-tourism has also become popular in Belize, and with good reason. Belize is a country that long ago decided to preserve the beauty of its primitive jungles and rain forests and the rare animals that inhabit them.

Belize has the only Jaguar preserve in the world which, beside Jaguars, is the home of pumas, ocelots and over 290 species of birds. Its black howler monkey sanctuary is actually on privately owned farm land where the owners have voluntarily agreed to let stand fruit trees from which the monkeys feed. Belize even has a reserve set aside as a butterfly breeding ground.

Once the center of the mighty Mayan empire, Belize has no shortage of Mayan ruins. In Cancun, you may have taken a tourist bus to visit the Mayan ruins Tulum. To get to the magnificent Mayan site of Lamanai in Belize, you'll board a boat and travel up a clear jungle river.

You'll find no discos or Holiday Inns in Belize. However, if quaint Spanish colonial-style cottages and guest houses meet your needs, Belize will do just fine.

Movie Pick

'Congo' dumber than dumb thriller

The new nature movie "Congo" may not be the first movie to fall very short of matching up to the novel on which it is based, in this case the book by Michael Crichton.

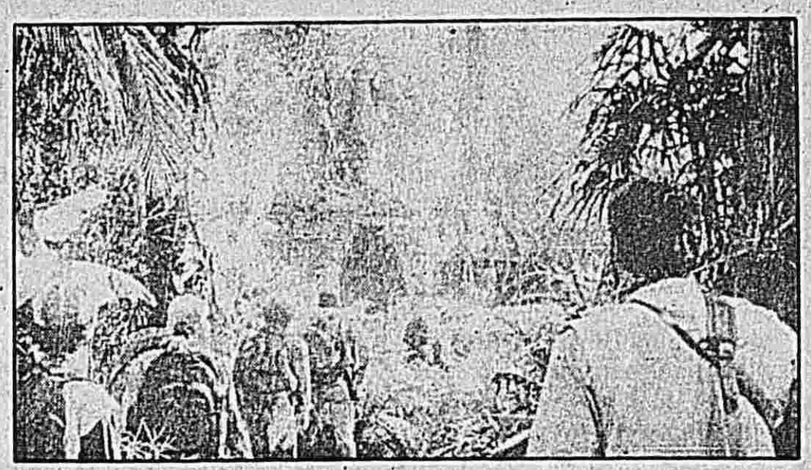

Extremely effective special effects, a plot that is crammed with wild adventure, complete with terrifyingly beautiful animals, picturesque jungle scenes, etc., in this case adds up to a very dull movie.

This is another Crichton tale of nature flipping out, but it's the picture that flips out because it's repetitively filled with bits and pieces of all its predecessors, scenes reminiscent of "The Indiana Jones Series" and "Jurassic Park," with a smattering of "Jaws 1 & 2," "Mogambo" and "King Solomon's Mines" tossed in for good measure.

What we have here are scientists joined by moneymen in search of lost diamonds, that are to be found in a lost city, legendarily guarded by giant apes.

Tim Curry does a hammy, but creditable job as a Romanian fortune hunter who is at home among all the other "bad guys"

The big loser here is the dialogue, which bounces from unsubtle irony, to a joking attitude, and back to dead seriousness so often that it's hard to tell which attitude is which. The two hours of "Congo" dragged out until it seemed at least three. This one is missing its Clark Gable or Stewart Granger in heat for their Ava Gardner. There is a woman in the picture, the weak part of a female employee of the corporation interested in the diamonds, played by Laura Linney.

But there is a "romance" between the scientist, played by Dylan Walsh, and his all-too-human ape, Amy. In fact, watching this ape, who knows over 600 words, and can speak and understand sign language, is a bit scary.

What is a jungle picture without its machismo guide? This time the usual macho flaunting stereotype hunter is convincingly played by Monroe Kelly.

There is an attempt to make Amy the group's most-adorable mascot, which rings false because Amy seems to be playing the entire thing with tongue in cheek.

There is very little suspense as the search for the diamonds progresses while this pale version of a Spielberg thriller misses its mark by a mile.

We give it one out of five stars and won't even suggest seeing the video version. If the magnificience of the jungle in all its splendor, splashed across the large screen couldn't save this movie, it should be completly lost on the TV screen.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Feature of the Week

Golden Panda is newest addition to Antioch

Joanne Yu, owner of Golden Panda restaurant in Antioch, is the new kid on the block, with over 10 years of restaurant experience under her belt. She operated a restaurant in Gurnee, Best Panda, but decided to sell her share to a partner in order to open a restaurant all her own. This is when Golden Panda was born!

Golden Panda, located at 422 Lake St. in Antioch, features Chinese cuisine, specifically Szechwan, Mandarin, Hunan, and Cantonese. You can dine in with seating for 60, carry out, or have your food delivered. This fine dining restaurant, decorated in the classic Chinese traditional style, also offers catering service outside the restaurant, and private parties inside for a maximum of 20 people.

Yu stated that Golden Panda is one of the few restaurants that actually list the ingredients for each dish on the menu, so customers know exactly what they're getting. Golden Panda's menu includes a variety of appetizers like egg rolls, bar-b-q spareribs, shrimp toast, and satay beef. Soups include hot and sour, egg drop, house special and more. House specialties include a variety of delicious dishes. Sesame Chicken is batter-fried chicken chunks prepared and blended with a tasty brown sauce, covered with sesame seeds and garnished with broccoli. General Tso's Chicken is batter-fried meaty chunks of chicken stir-fried with bell peppers and baby corns in Golden Panda's special tangy sauce. There's also Happy Family, a shrimp, chicken, beef and BBQ pork dish, Neptune Delight, which includes shrimps, scallops, and crab meat; and Three In a Nest, a beef, shrimp and chicken stir-fry meal. Along with many more house specialties to choose from, there are shrimp, pork, beef, poultry, and vegetable dishes, in addition to fried rice and a number of lunch specials served from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. 7 days a week. All lunch special dishes come with an egg roll and fried rice.

For fine Chinese cuisine, visit Golden Panda, 422 Lake St., Antioch, (708) 838-1088. Hours are Monday through Thursday, 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and Sunday, 12 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Not everything is clear where job interests are concerned. It's best to do some further research to find out what's going on. The weekend finds you magnetic and romantic. Couples enjoy special times.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) News may come about a financial matter this week. Distractions at work could interfere with progress so try to avoid daydreaming. You could get more done at home than at the office.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Good will opens doors for you in business, but avoid financial risk-taking. While you're inclined to trust what someone's saying, this requires more analysis. Going out this weekend is favored.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It could occur to you this week that there's a lot to be done at home base. Instead of dreading it, just get off your seat and tackle those chores. New business developments are likely. Romance is favored this weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Mixed messages and confused signals make it slow-going early in the week. However, you have extra drive and energy now and will make up for lost time later in the week. Enjoy home life with loved ones this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) It's a better week for saving money than spending. Guard against unfeasible and costly tangents. Be sure you have your feet on the ground concerning romance. The weekend's accent is on having fun with friends.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You might not exactly understand what a relative is trying to tell you. This person is being unnecessarily circumspect. Encourage a straightforward approach. Take the initiative in planning a social get-together.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) It's a better week for finishing pending projects than for plunging into something new. You're a bit bored and restless with the status quo, but you need to stick with it for now. The weekend finds you effervescent.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) The plans you make this week could include travel. It's not the best time for mixing friendship and business, although you are sorely tempted to do so. You'll be especially effective in stating your views this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Don't have too many irons in the fire this week. Concentrate on one project and you'll make important progress. Both social and mental interests are highlighted this weekend, although you must prioritize invitations.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) It could be difficult to finalize travel plans now due to a partner's stubbornness. However, you must overcome this since teamwork leads to accomplishment. News comes from a friend who lives far away this weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Guard against an unwise use of credit this week. This isn't really in keeping with your usual frugal nature. Determination and drive combine to bring you success on the job. Talks with higher-ups are favored.

Ameritech offers phone deal

LAKE COUNTY—Ameritech's Pay Phone Convenience Line enables businesses to offer customers or employees the convenience of a pay phone without tying up their regular business lines. The service is designed for those small to mid-sized businesses that have the need, but not the pedestrian traffic, to warrant a regular pay phone. Regular pay phones are installed by Ameritech and others in locations that have the potential for heavy phone usage. Ameritech then pays a commission on that usage to the business or property owner. With Convenience Line, a business pays about $1 a day to Ameritech to have the pay phone on site.

Cambridge Homes to acquire Lexington Homes

Libertyville- based Cambridge Homes Inc. has signed an agreement with Westinghouse Electric Corp. to acquire Lexington Homes Inc., it was announced by Richard Brown, president of Cambridge Homes.

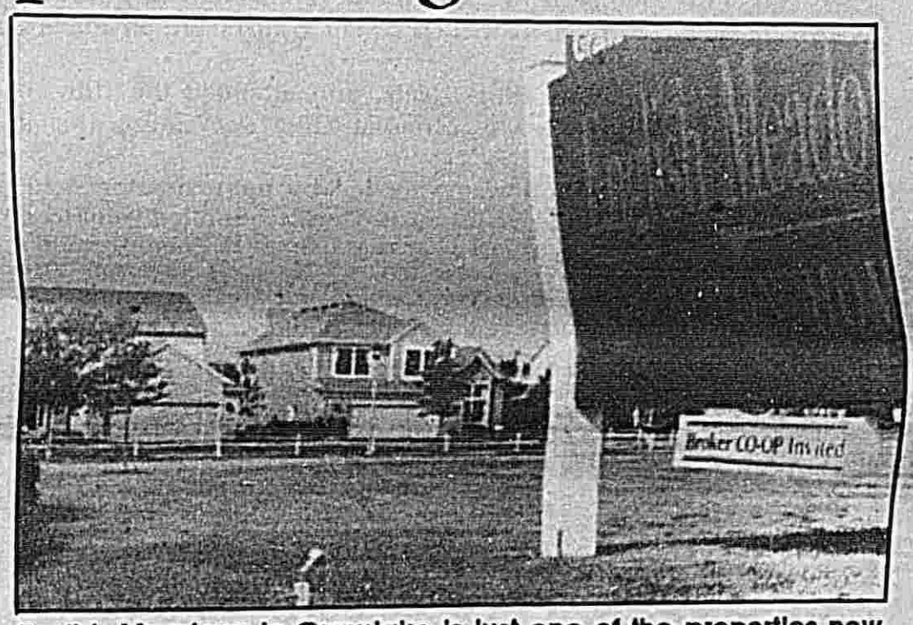

Lexington Homes, a major home building company in the Chicago area, has been owned by Westinghouse since 1991. The acquisition will give Cambridge Homes ownership of Lexington's entire Chicagoland operation, including its nine current developments and land inventory.

"This brings together two strong, well known leaders in the home building industry. Both Cambridge and Lexington have been in business for many years, and are highly respected throughout the industry and by the home-buying public," said Brown.

Both Cambridge and Lexington have consistently been among the top five builders in Illinois, and both are rated in the top "Builder 100" group nationally.

In 1994, Cambridge Homes sold 672 homes, closed 695 homes and generated gross sales revenues of $130 million. Not including Lexington developments, Cambridge has 15 current communities located throughout the Chicago area. The company offers more than 50 different single-family home styles and a number of townhome and garden home designs with prices ranging from the low $100,000s to more than $400,000

Closing on the acquisition is anticipation in the next 30 days.

Naval Training Center Great Lakes sees building boom

GLORIA DAVIS
Staff Reporter

The construction to support the consolidation of Navy training at Naval Training Center Great Lakes is in full swing with work approximately 50 percent complete.

Six months after the announcement listing the projects estimated to cost over $203 million, being undertaken both at Naval Training Center and Recruit Training Command. "Things are about at the halfway mark," said Ruth Beth, Public Works Center.

A bid of $15,450,000 was accepted on NTC Projects 581-593-598 (2B)—597. This consists of the remodeling of 89,000 sq. ft. of Bldg. 2B. It is also includes the rehabilitation of 44,650 sq. ft. in Bldg. 122 to accommodate training spaces.

A bid of $6,843,000 was accepted from J.J. Henderson on Feb. 14 for NTC Project 605, the construction of a new building for Airman AT School consisting of 44,223 sq. ft. co-located on the same site as Elevator Training School.

NTC Project 595 is the construction of a single story 43,000 sq. ft. building for Machinery Repairman "A" and "C" Schools. The estimated cost is $5 to $15 million, with the bid due to be opened in July. NTC Project 576 is the construction of a single story 2,400 sq. ft. addition to the existing Bldg. 621 for a RADIAC calibration range.

IRS questionnaire only serves to baffle taxpayers

Millions of taxpayers will be receiving a questionnaire from the IRS in the next few weeks. This is the second phase of the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) dilemma.

During the tax filing season the IRS withheld payment on approximately seven million returns claiming earned income credit. The promise was that the IRS would review the claims and issue either a check for the withheld amount of further communication.

Those taxpayers who were not sent a check for the earned income credit portion of their refund are currently receiving a two-page questionnaire (Form 9598-Earned Income Tax Credit and Dependent Questionnaire) that is intended to validate the information previously disclosed on the 1994 tax return.

"We are getting calls from across the country from taxpayers who need assistance completing the forms," said John T. Hewitt, CEO and president of Jackson Hewitt Tax Service. "There are a lot of concerns about how to supply information such as proof of a child's length of residence with the taxpayer. Also, copies of birth certificates are required and many people just can't find them," explained Hewitt.

Jackson Hewitt Tax Service is offering to help taxpayers who have received this questionnaire complete it properly so as not to further delay their earned income credit payment. This service is free of charge.

IRS figures through April 28 indicate that 15.6 million tax returns were filed claiming the earned income credit. Jackson Hewitt estimates that approximately 45 percent of these returns had payment withheld initially. "Some taxpayers have received their payment," said Hewitt. "But there are probably millions left wondering what to do now."

Any taxpayer requesting assistance should call the Jackson Hewitt office near them. Jackson Hewitt operates 1222 offices coast to coast. The taxpayer does not need to be a prior customer of Jackson Hewitt to obtain this assistance.

Ducks Unlimited elects president

Gene M. Henry of McFarland, Wis., has been elected president of Ducks Unlimited, Inc., the 553,000-member international waterfowl and wetlands conservation organization. The election took place at Ducks Unlimited's 58th annual meeting in Anchorage, Alaska.

"Gene Henry brings nearly three decades of experience as a conservationist and an entrepreneur to his position as president," said Matthew B. Connelly Jr., Ducks Unlimited (DU) executive vice president.

Henry was elected first vice president of DU in May 1994. He previously served as DU's senior vice president for the Northwest Mississippi Flyway, national trustee, member of the board of directors, chairman of the Membership Subcommittee, regional vice-president, Wisconsin state chairman, district chairman, zone chairman and area chairman.

Henry was born in Hastings, Neb., and attended the Univ. of Wisconsin and is president of Monona Tube & Welding, Inc. in McFarland, Wis.

DU's annual convention was attended by approximately 1,100 waterfowl and wetlands conservationists. Ducks Unlimited volunteers raised a record $71.7 million last year that helped the organization's biologists and engineers conserve 430,000 acres of wetlands and upland waterfowl habitat in the U.S., Canada and Mexico. Since 1937, Du has raised $891 million to conserve seven million acres of waterfowl habitat throughout the North American continent.

How to help control anger while in the workplace

Violence seems to be a topic on everyone's mind—violence in the workplace, domestic violence, violence against children. Headlines are filled with reports of lives lost or damaged because of violent behavior; unfortunately, it's difficult to know if these programs are working.

The Finch Univ. of Health Sciences/The Chicago Medical School is researching a program that has been effective in deterring violent behavior. The Anger Control Training (ACT) program, which is coordinated by the Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA), is targeted at substance abusing males who have a history of violent behavior. Dr. John Burns, Dr. David Kossen and Dr. Lawrence Perlmuter from the Finch Univ. of Health Sciences/The Chicago Medical School in North Chicago are conducting a study of the ACT program to determine:

•The type of client who will most likely benefit from the program;

•who is most likely to complete the program; and

•how the treatment sessions correlate to an improvement in the client's ability to handle anger more appropriately.

Dr. Perlmuter, chairman of the department of psychology at Finch Univ., said the research will be done during the next two years, building a database that will provide NICASA with outcome data to help in improving the effectiveness of the program.

ACT is being offered at the Waukegan NICASA site, using training material from the Hazelden Foundation and the men's work program of the Oakland Men's Project. For more information about the research program and the ACT program, call Vickie Austin at Finch Univ./The Chicago Medical School at (312)240-2617.

Gardening suggestions for lawns in shade areas

Thin, weak, poor-looking grass seems to be a common complaint from Lake County homeowners when lawns exist under the shade of trees. Maintaining a quality stand of grass under the shade of trees is difficult, and in some situations nearly impossible.

Lawns in the shade of trees compete with the trees for sunlight, water, and nutrients. Usually the tree wins but following are some ways to help the lawn. Start by choosing a shade tolerant grass mixture. Red fescue or other fine fescues are the primary lawn species in these mixtures. Next, prune vegetation to allow the maximum amount of light to reach the soil surface.

Once established, care of a lawn in a shady area is different than grasses grown in the full sun. Mow as high as possible, and fertilize less in the shade, as too much nitrogen can be detrimental to shade lawn species. About one to two pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet per season is all that is needed. When watering shade lawns, do so as infrequently as possible, and water deeply.

If these practices have been followed but the lawn still fails, there probably is not enough light, even for a shade tolerant species. Often homeowners will seed the proper quality shade lawn mix. It comes up fine, but then declines rapidly due to a lack of sufficient light.

If lawn grasses have failed, the next step is to try a shade tolerant groundcover, such as ajuga, pachysandra, euonymus, and periwinkle, among others. If it's too dark for these, then the next step is to apply a mulch, such as chipped or shredded bark, possibly in combination with ferns or woodland flowers. Lawn grasses in the shade will cannot toleratelots of backyard events, or other types of stress.

Anytime garden project: A cut flower border

For many people, the idea of a traditional flower garden conjures up images of English estates, complete with full-time gardeners. Busy homeowners, wanting to keep things simple, tend to stick to the basics: petunias or marigolds in sunny spots, impatiens in the shade.

While there's nothing wrong with these standard annuals, there are literally hundreds of others available as transplants at any garden center.

Building the border: Choose a spot that gets full sun, preferably facing south. If you're planting against a foundation or garden wall, put tall-growers at the rear, and graduate downwards to the front, finishing with low-growing edging plants. In a bed or border that will be viewed from both sides, put tall plants in the center.

Traditional favorites: Tall-growing plants to consider are Hollyhocks, Foxglove and common or Mexican Sunflowers. Medium-sized plants for the middle ground include Calendula, Cosmos, Dahlias, Forget-me-nots, Snapdragons, Stock and Zinnias. For the forward edges of the border, tried-and-true varieties include Alyssum, Ageratum, Lobelia and Verbena.

One-step weeding and feeding: Before plugging in your transplants, remove any existing weeds and apply a good weed preventer with plant food. Scratch it into the soil, plant and water well. This and a second application about four weeks later will prevent competition from new weeds, feed your flowers and save you plenty of unnecessary work.

How to make cut flowers last: Cut flowers early in the morning when they have the highest water content and place immediately into a bucket of water.

Autumn ideas: This fall, add spring flowering bulbs like daffodils and tulips to your border. When they're through blooming in late spring or early summer, begin plugging in your annuals again to hide the fading bulb foliage and rebuild your cut flower border.

Law: parental notification before abortions

Gov. Jim Edgar has signed legislation requiring notification of parents before minors can undergo abortions. The legislation, House Bill 955, includes safeguards to cover extraordinary circumstances in which it would not be in the child's best interest to give such notification.

"Although I generally believe government should not intrude itself into a woman's decision as to whether to have an abortion, I consistently have supported the concept of parental involvement when minors are confronting such a significant dilemma," the governor said in a signing message.

"Under current Illinois law, parental consent is required before medical, dental and surgical procedures can be performed on a minor. Before a dentist can fill a teenager's tooth or a doctor can treat the teenager for acne, the parents must be involved; yet, a teenager can lawfully undergo an abortion without such involvement.

"House Bill 955 addresses the inconsistency in a rational, thoughtful and balanced manner. It does not prohibit minors from undergoing abortions; however, it helps assure that they do not proceed without the counsel of adults who care about them. Moreover, this legislation contains the safeguards I insisted upon to cover those extraordinary cases in which a minor's best interests will not be served by requiring notification of her parents."

'Although I generally believe government should not intrude itself into a woman's decision as to whether to have an abortion, I consistently have supported the concept of parental involvement when minors are confronting such a significant dilemma.'

—Governor Jim Edgar

The legislation requires physicians or their agents to give notice at least 48 hours in advance of performing an abortion on a minor.

Notice can be given to a parent, step-parent or grandparent.

"The notification requirement is waived if the minor is a victim of sexual abuse, neglect or physical abuse by either parent. A minor also has the option of seeking a waiver from a judge who could determine that notification would not be in the minor's best interests. In addition, this legislation, unlike Senate Bill 836, recognizes that many children, in reality, are being raised by their grandparents and, therefore, should have the option of notifying them instead of their parents," the governor said.

"This legislation also holds physicians accountable if they do not comply with the law; yet it does so in a fashion consistent with other disciplinary proceedings involving doctors by having the cases weighed and the penalties imposed by the Medical Disciplinary Board instead of by criminal prosecutors, as would be the case if Senate Bill 836 became law."

Edgar added, "I recognize that, even with its safeguards, House Bill 955 is unacceptable to those who do not believe we should be legislating in this area. I also recognize that, even with its basic dictate of parental involvement, it is unacceptable to those who believe abortions should be illegal in virtually all circumstances. Nevertheless, I believe this is legislation that responsibly and realistically addresses the parental involvement concerns of those who are not found at the extremes of the very difficult and emotional abortion debate."

The governor vetoed Senate Bill 836, which is another parental notification bill that reached his desk. In the veto message, he said House Bill 955 "is less punitive, more sensitive to all circumstances under which a minor could confront an abortion decision and, therefore, more likely to accomplish the common goal of these two pieces of legislation."

Leading sponsors of House Bill 955 were Rep. Terry R. Parke (R-Schaumburg), Rep. Ann Hughes (R-McHenry) and Sen. Doris Karpiel (R-Roselle) and Sen. Beverly Fawell (R-Glen Ellyn).

Victory's New Family Center strives to educate parents

Today, mothers and newborns are on the way home from the hospital so quickly there is little time for first-time mothers to practice the skills essential to caring for an infant. To help reinforce the techniques of handling a newborn, the New Family Center at Victory Memorial Hospital is now providing each new mother with a video entitled, "The Baby Care Home Video." In addition, the staff is offering a parenting class.

The video covers such topics as bathing a newborn, calming a baby and what to do when a baby is sick.

"We want to give the families something that will help them at home," said Sue Keeley, director of the New Family Center.

First-time parents can also benefit from a class called "The Joy of Parenting," which discusses a variety of baby care issues. The two-hour class meets on the second Saturday of each month at the hospital, located at 1324 N. Sheridan Rd. in Waukegan. The cost for the class is $10.

Both the video and class are available in English or Spanish. For more information, call the New Family Center at 360-4121.

Zion nurse provides unexpected care during Waukegan church service

Nurses are essential health care professionals at hospitals, but at Waukegan's Jesus Name Apostolic Church a nurse played a very important role during an evening service.

When a member of the congregation suddenly became ill, Shirley Hampton, RN, and Sandra White used their knowledge and skills to help save the woman's life.

"There was a crowd near the woman and someone called me to come and help," said Hampton, a member of the nursing staff at Midwestern Regional Medical Center in Zion. "I checked her vital signs and felt a faint pulse. I checked again and felt no pulse. That's when we started CPR."

White performed compressions on the woman's chest and Hampton provided mouth-to-mouth ventilation. An ambulance was called and the woman was taken to St. Therese Medical Center.

"Our congregation would like to thank these ladies very much," said Lem Brashear, a member of the church staff. "We respect them for offering such help in our emergency situation."

Information superhighway means lower health costs

Health care in the U.S. is considered the finest in the world, partly because of its technological sophistication and now the wonders of the electronic age are reaching the administrative side as well. Just as there is a revolution in the delivery of health care services through a greater use of managed care, there is also a major effort underway to streamline everything from insurance claims processing to medical record keeping through a greater use of computer systems. The potential for higher quality care and lower costs is tremendous.

Paperwork once threatened to choke the life from the nation's health care system. Doctors and hospital administrators complained about hundreds of different claims forms that often had to be filled out by hand and returned by mail.

At Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Illinois, the state's largest health insurer, 75 percent of all claims are received and processed electronically. And there are several programs underway to bring that figure very close to 100 percent.

For example, Blue Cross and Ameritech have formed a partnership to provide services to physicians' offices in order to improve productivity and reduce costs for both physicians and insurers. Physicians will be able to submit claims and referral information, check eligibility and claims status, and look up consulting physicians from on-line directories. Eventually providers will be able to use the network to route test results, X-rays, MRI scans and other vital information among themselves.

As these types of electronic data interchange systems, called EDI, spread across the nation the savings are expected to be huge. It's been estimated that for every 10 percent reduction in paperwork, $8 billion can be saved annually.

The electronic age, however, is bringing greater efficiency to more than just insurance claims processing. Managed care plans are using computers extensively to track patient care. Sophisticated systems automatically remind patients when it's time for a check-up or immunization shot.

The University of Pittsburgh Medical Center has launched an on-line computer system that makes laboratory and radiology results available to physicians almost instantly. Diagnoses are made more quickly so treatment is started sooner. LDS hospital in Salt Lake City has electronic medical charts at each patient's bedside, making all test results and patient histories instantly available.

Gathering medical information electronically also creates opportunities to evaluate the quality of care and the effectiveness of various treatments on a very large scale. With special safeguards in place to protect privacy, this information may someday be used by medical researchers in the development of new drugs and surgical procedures. The information eventually will be used by consumers and employers in selecting the best health plan for their needs based on quality and price comparisons.

While the promise of the electronic age has yet to be fully realized, it's clear that the nation's health care system is now in the fast lane on the information superhighway heading toward significant improvements in care and cost savings.

Abbott seeks market approval for use of antibiotic for AIDS

Abbott Laboratories has submitted a Supplemental New Drug Application to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), seeking marketing approval for the use of clarithromycin (Biaxin®) for the prevention of disseminated Mycobacterium avium complex (MAC) disease in patients with advanced HIV infection. MAC, the most common systemic bacterial infection in patients with advanced AIDS, has been detected in more than 50 percent of AIDS patients at autopsy.

"Patients with advanced AIDS who are severely immunocompromised are at high risk for the onset of opportunistic infections, including disseminated MAC," said J. Car Craft, M.D., Venture Head, Macrolide Venture, pharmaceutical products division, Abbott Laboratories. "Our best hope for these patients is to treat them prophylactically in an effort to reduce their infections and possibly extend their lives."

Clinical trial results suggest that clarithromycin may be effective in preventing the onset of disseminated MAC. In a two-year study conducted at 66 sites in the U.S. and Europe, 682 patients with advanced AIDS (defined as fewer than 100 CD4 cells/mm), received either 500 mg clarithromycin or a placebo twice daily. Among the 667 patients included in the intent-to-treat population, the incidence of disseminated MAC was reduced 69 percent by using the antibiotic. Mortality from all causes over the two-year period was reduced by 28 percent among patients receiving clarithromycin compared with those receiving a placebo.

Victory speakers provide resource

Planning for the 1995-96 club year is about to begin, and program chairmen for local organizations can arrange informative, entertaining programs by calling Victory Memorial Hospital's Speakers Bureau.

Alzheimer's patients to take part in ADENA study program

Physicians at Northwestern Univ. Medical School have announced that they are participation gin the largest ever global clinical research trials program conducted for a new experimental drug to treat the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease. Approximately 40 patients with probably mild to moderate Alzheimer's disease will take part in the ADENA (Alzheimer's Dementia with SDZ ENA 713) research program at Northwestern Memorial Hospital.

Alzheimer's disease is a progressive and ultimately fatal degenerative disease of the brain. It is estimated that four million Americans suffer from Alzheimer's, translating into one person in 20 over the age of 65, and one in five people over the age of 80. Few drugs are available to treat the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease.

The purpose of the ADENA research program is to test the effectiveness and tolerability of different doses of the experimental drug compared to placebo. To be eligible for the ADENA research study patients must be:

•At least 50 years of age;

•diagnosed as having probably Alzheimer's disease;

•in stable health; and

•have a responsible caregiver.

Alzheimer's patients and their caregivers can learn more about the ADENA research program by calling Maureen Moran at (312)503-0500.

Alzheimer's disease is especially difficult for drug development since there is no easy way to measure the effect of treatment on the symptoms of the disease. An effective medicine for Alzheimer's should produce an improvement in the patient's cognitive ability, behavioral function and activities of daily living. Cognitive ability refers to mental function such as memory, reasoning and orientation to time and space, and behavioral function refers to personality, mood and social graces. The normal activities of daily living include everyday tasks such as shopping, driving, bathing and feeding oneself.

In additional to the other established scales, ADENA investigators will use the Clinicians Interview Based Impression of Change (CIBIC)-Plus, using a semi-structured interview to assess the global changes in the patient's status. The CIBIC-Plus interview guide allows the clinician to evaluate the patient's cognitive impairment and behavioral function, plus it incorporates the caregiver's insight into the patient's behavior and daily life activities. Thus, in the ADENA research program, caregivers will play an important role in the clinical evaluation of patients.

Seminar gives tips on how to motivate a child

Every parent wants their child to be motivated and succeed. But sometimes just urging a child to get ready for school on time or do their homework seems like a monumental task. Sometimes parents don't understand why their children don't try harder.

According to IOF Foresters child behavior expert Arnold Rincover, Ph.D., parents can play an active role in developing motivation. "Children do not develop the desire to succeed, or the belief that they can succeed, merely as a consequence of having been born," stated Rincover. "It comes from the parents. Children gradually learn the desire to achieve, primarily in the middle years, if we make it an important part of life."

To help parents learn how to instill achievement in their children, the IOF Foresters are providing a free brochure on ways to motivate children. Some of the suggestions include:

•Train independence. Parental pressure to be self-reliant has been found to foster achievement motivation.

•Offer feedback. Feedback is absolutely essential for learning. It tells a child whether he's doing well or if he can do better.

•Model your behavior. The fastest way to teach a child something is to model or demonstrate it for him.

For free tips on motivating, call 1-800-922-4IOF.

Victory offers cardiac patients a broad range of multi-disciplinary diagnostic and support services. Just one example is Victory's Cardiac Catheterization lab. Here, board certified cardiologists from Victory's medical staff and specialists from the famous Heart Center at St. Luke's Hospital in Milwaukee perform a variety of sophisticated diagnostic procedures.

Victory wants you to get well and stay well. From rehabilitation, which includes exercise and nutrition counseling, to follow up testing, Victory Memorial offers you a lifetime of cardiac care and services.

Retailing isn't what it used to be. And now, neither is banking.

In fact, we're bringing them much closer together at our branch inside the Round Lake Beach Super Kmart Center. And though a bank in a grocery store or mall is nothing new, in this relationship everything is new.

Employees at these banks will be active participants in the retail program. This means they won't be shut up in a kiosk, stuck behind windows or big desks all the time. They will be part of the retail experience, taking NBD's products and services to the shoppers.

Sounds exciting, doesn't it? And even better, your retailing experience makes you a perfect candidate to join this revolutionary approach to banking. Consider the following:

PERSONAL BANKERS

Part-Time - 20 to 25 hours per week. (Weekend hours included.)

Your responsibilities will be a dynamic mix of traditional banking duties and aggressive marketing, servicing customers and seeking to capitalize on cross sales opportunities. How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: Dear...Search: I am writing in regard to a conversation I was involved in a few weeks back. An acquaintance was describing an incident that had caught her as she put it, "off guard". She had applied for a position as a general office clerk. Her qualifications were as she put it, "up to par". While she was currently employed with another company in the same industry, the idea of taking a job closer to home appealed to her and made her want the job all the more. During her first interview the company was impressed with her ability to deal with difficult people, and at the end of the two hour interview, the potential employer asked if she had anything else to add other than what appeared on her resume and application. She said that she would appreciate it if they would not contact her current employer as she did not want to let on that she was looking for a new job. At that point the company stated that they would be checking references. It came to be known within the first 15 minutes of reference checking that this person did not graduate from the High School for which she stated. In fact, it was found that there was no High School diploma from any school nor was there an equivilancy test. The company was let down by the thought of thinking they had found the right person only to have found her honesty to be questionable. In questioning the references they were given by this person, it was found that although she stated that she was currently employed with a specific employer, a reference stated that she had not been employed there for a very long time. The employer called her on these discrepancies in her information for which the person became irate, by using four letter words followed by three letter words and resembling nothing short of a Jekyll & Hyde routine. "How dare they check my current employer" she was overheard to say. I chuckled at the thought of how she reacted to something that she herself caused. It wasn't until she started to rant and rave about how she was going to call the Better Business Bureau on the company and tell all her friends not to work for that company, that I finally stuck my piece of mind in on the deal. What is wrong with this picture? Every application I have filled out in my time asks for a signature which states something like...to the best of my knowledge, all the information is true and correct. She said she signed it and I asked her what do you think that was for...your autograph?!?!?! It is a document...binding...and legal. People check references. Those who don't, open themselves up for trouble right from the start. Do you agree? Thanks for listening. F.R. - Gurnee.

A: Dear F.R. Right you are! Had the person been honest in the beginning, they would have stood a much better chance of landing the job than for the company to have found it out in the long run and destroyed her credibility. She seems to have done that all on her own. Thanks for writing!.

Sometimes an old-fashioned song

Brings us a thought of you;

Sometimes a flower as we pass along,

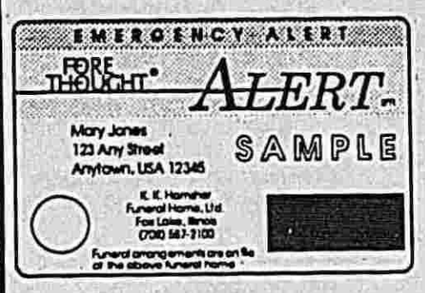

Or a sky that is azure blue;

Or a silver lining in the clouds,

When the sun is peeping through.

All of these things, make us think of you.

Who will speak for you in an emergency?

If you're away from home and become ill or seriously injured, how easy would it be for someone to contact your family? Your doctor? Or anyone who might have knowledge of your medical history, insurance coverage, or relatives?

Now you can avoid this dilemma by carrying a Forethought Alert$_{sm}$ identification card which contains your vital medical information on microfilm ... and the Forethought Alert program is available to you FREE just for talking to us about Forethought funeral planning*!

PET OF THE WEEK

"Ginger"

"Ginger" is a full size, spayed female, yellow labrador mix. This beautiful girl has a short, tan coat with cream colored patches. Just two years old, Ginger is housebroken and very good with children. She is also good with other dogs, and well-behaved with cats. Ginger is well-trained and she knows how to sit, stay, and come on command. Ginger has been a family dog and is now very lonely. Because she is so people-oriented and affectionate, Ginger would like to go to a home where someone is home most of the time, however Ginger can be crated when left alone. Not hyper or aggressive, Ginger is a calm, playful dog and she walks beautifully on a leash. Labs are smart dogs and excellent family pets. If you like lab mixes, please come and adopt a lonely dog named Ginger, in cage 58.

Cash $55 donation includes free spay/neuter, collar, tag, leash, first shots, follow-up care and much more.

Annual Prate fishing tournament casts off June 24

The 16th Annual Prate Fishing Tournament will be held on June 24 from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Bangs Lake in Wauconda. Check-in begins at 6 a.m. on the beach behind Mers Restaurant, located at 313 E. Liberty St. The tournament is one of the many exciting activities to be held during Waucondafest which starts on June 22 and runs through June 25. Winners will be announced at 3 p.m. on the main stage at Waucondafest.

This is a multi species partners tournament, however you may fish alone. Prizes are awarded on a point system. Fish are weighed to the full ounce and given various points per ounce based on species. A complete list of rules will be distributed to all registering contestants. Anyone who would like to participate should register in advance at Prate Installations, 368 W. Liberty St., Box 816, Wauconda, There is a $15 registration fee per contestant.

The original Prate Fishing Tournaments were run solely as an employee gathering. Over the years as participation grew, it was opened to the public and has evolved into a widely anticipated event and community fund raiser. Entry fees and cash contributions are donated to the Village of Wauconda for the Bangs Lake Fish Restocking Program and to the Wauconda Park Dist. for the new fishing pier project.

Prize money has also grown over they years with 1995's first prize amount being $750. Second place earns $500 and third place is awarded $250. Michael Prate, owner of Prate Installations, was the sole prize money donator for approximately 10 years. Generous co-sponsors, and cash and merchandise donators, now contribute along with Prate to make it an even greater success. All contestants will receive an engraved filet knife from Chicago Cutley, a sports bottle from Prate Installations and a can cooler from Budweiser distributor, Rinella Beverage. Donated prizes will also be awarded for first through 10th place.

The $500 co-sponsors for the fest are: Wauconda Boat and 3-D Bowl/Sideouts Bar. For a $10 fee , boat launching will be available tournament morning at both Wauconda Boat Marina and Lindy's Landing. For additional information call Debra Kuester at 526-6402, ext. 237.

USA Karate Team seeks funds for Greece

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

The USA Karate Team has been hitting the circuit promoting the ancient self-defense art form and raising funds to compete in the Mediterranean Games in Greece Oct. 16-26.

Members of Team USA who will be competing in Greece made a special appearance at Libertyville Days to put on a special clinic. Based in Libertyville, USA Karate is the only sanctioned organization to represent the United States in international competition.

"This is the only organization that is recognized as the national champions," said USA Karate Head Coach John Townsley. "Other organizations may represent their school or style. We carry the flag."

'Other organizations may represent their school or style. We carry the flag. This is the only organization that is recognized as the national champions.'
—John Townsley, USA Karate Head Coach

Townsley will be taking a squad of 96 from across the country to the Greece competition. He will be fielding three teams including a junior team, a teen team and an adult black belt team. Twelve of the members live in Lake County.

In addition, Townsley has been waiting patiently before karate becomes an Olympic competition. Seventeen other sports are waiting for the same status.

"We were accepted as an Olympic sport in 1985, but getting scheduled is another thing," Townsley said. "Our time will come when the time comes."

He is hoping to be included on the Olympic agenda in the year 2000. In the meantime, he has sponsored karate teams at the Euro Games, the African Games, the Asian Games, the Pan-American Games and the Good Will Games. Townsley has coached 250 national champions and seven world professional champions.

The key to being recognized by the Olympics, Townsley said, was establishing a set of karate rules now practiced by more than 150 countries.

"We're using a set of rules that has to be used internationally," Townsley said. "These rules are international and recognized by the International Olympic Committee."

Schooled in the Vince Lombardi method of "winning is everything," Townsley said he has toned down his coaching methods to put "athletes first, and winning second." He heads a coaching program at the University of Illinois.

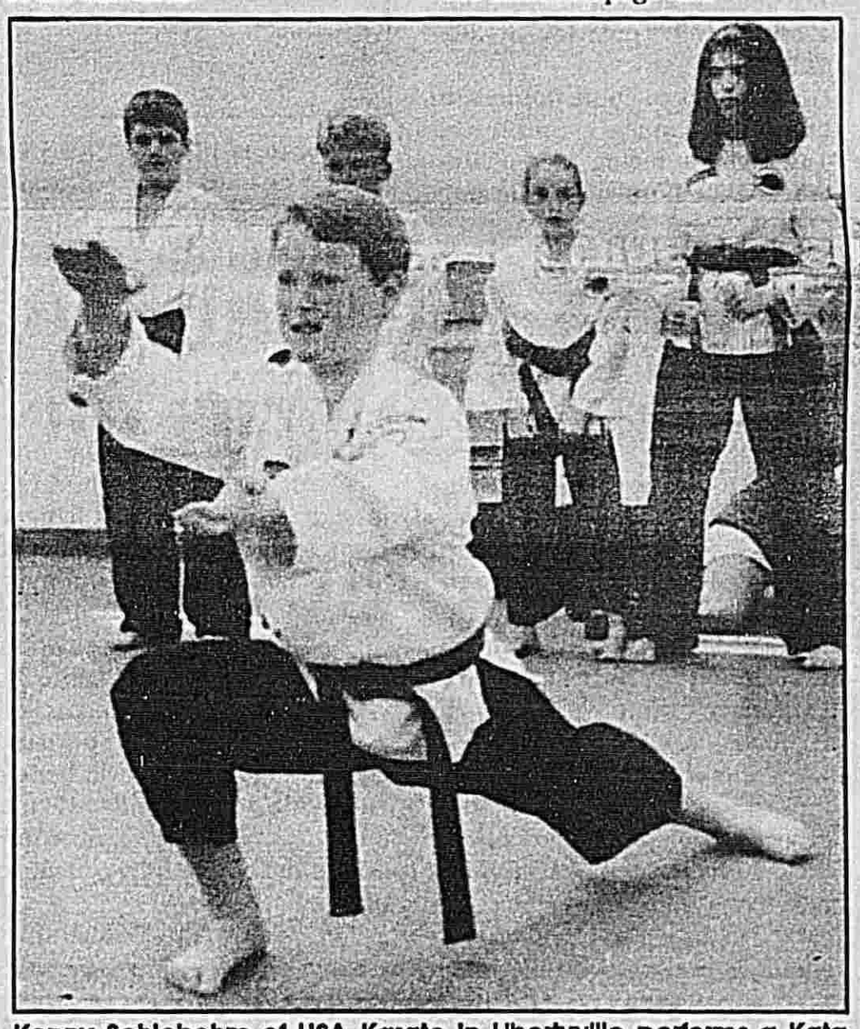

"Without developing discipline and self-control, you can't accomplish anything in life. You can't accomplish anything in karate," Townsley said.

Despite the popular belief that karate originated in Japan, Townsley was quick to note that karate actually began in China. Karate was only introduced to Japan during this century.

Meaning "empty hand" in its Japanese vernacular, Townsley said karate originated as a self-defense form used by peasants and farmers.

"There is no first attack in karate," Townsley stressed. "That's woven into the very fabric of the exercises."

Adler Park hosts Lake County disc golf open

Libertyville's Adler Park will be the site of the 1995 Lake County Open PDGA Disc Golf Tournament.

Amateurs and professionals from all over the country as well as past world champions will converge at the disc golf course July 1 and July 2.

Similar to regular golf, disc golf is played on a 18-hole course. Players launch Frisbees instead of hitting golf balls, and players try to get their Frisbees in a basket in stead of sinking a ball into a cup.

Amateur Day is set for July 1. Two rounds of 18 holes will be played. Registration closes at 8:30 a.m. Trophies will be awarded to amateur, novice, junior and master players.

Professional and Advanced Day is set for July 2. Two rounds of 24 holes will be played. Registration closes at 9:30 a.m

To register, call the Libertyville Parks and Recreation Department at 362-7490.

Days were five members of Team USA who all train at USA Karate in Libertyville. They include:

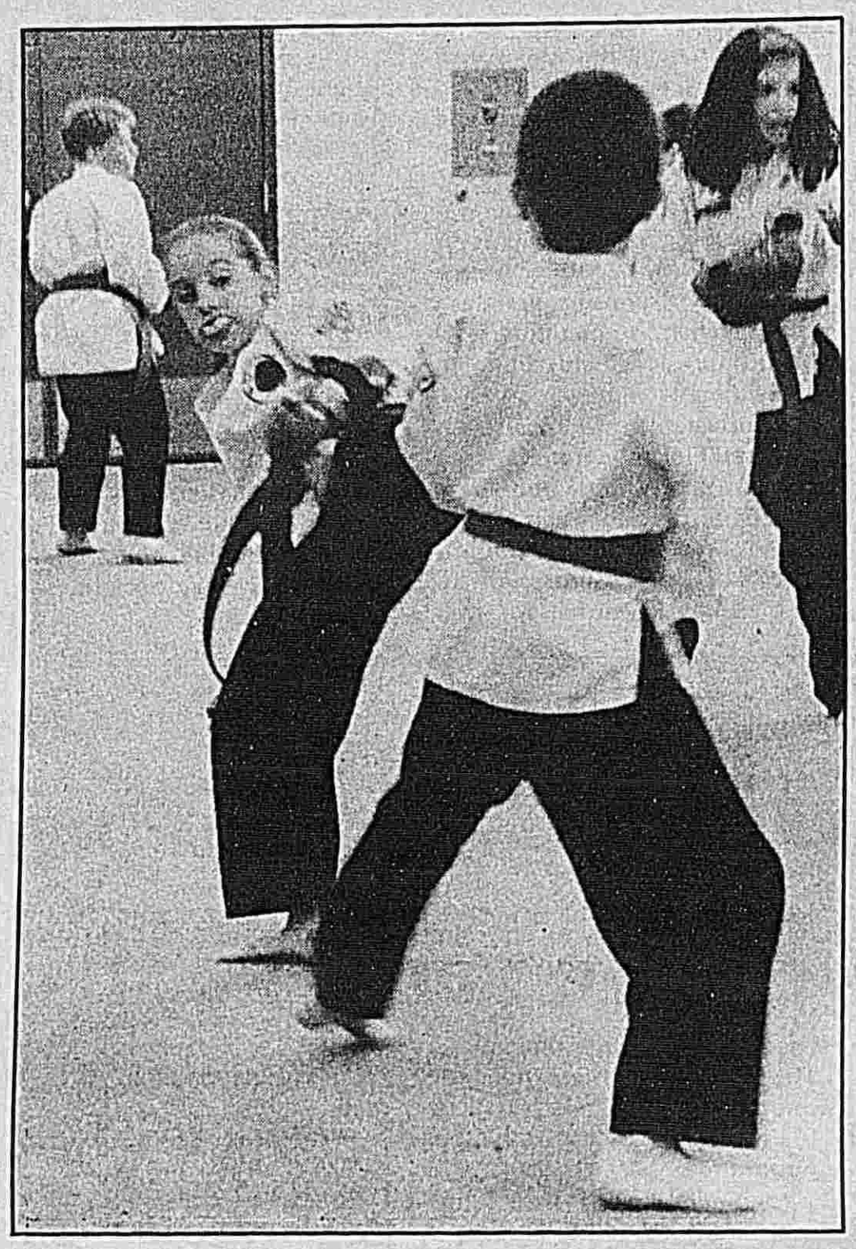

- Becky Bush, 13, a gold medalist at the Good Will Games;
- Kenny Schlobohm, 11, a gold medalist at the Junior Olympics;
- Tim Bush, 12, a regional champion and a medalist in the national trials.
- Travis Bestwick, 12, a regional champion.
- Jimmy Chagdes, 10, a regional champion.

Also performing was Tiffany Chagdes, 9, who earned a bronze medal in the U.S. National Championships. She is a year too young to be competing in Greece.

Before setting out for Greece in October, Townsley said his team will compete in the League Championships in July and the National Championships in August.

The team will also be busy sponsoring fund-raisers to help support its trip to Greece, where the team will compete at the original Olympic site. Business sponsorship and donations are tax deductible. For more information, call Townsley at 362-7872.

"I intend to come home with some gold medals," promised Townsley, showing that a little bit of Vince Lombardi still exists in him.

LaCASA golf outing offers chance to play with pros for good cause

LaCASA's sexual assault prevention program invites residents to enjoy a memorable round of golf with a pro and support a worthy cause at the same time.

LaCASA's Charity Pro-Am Golf Outing will be held July 10 at Exmoor Country Club in Highland Park.

"We've changed the format to a Pro-Am to give area residents a chance to mingle with golf professionals and perhaps pick up a few tips that can improve their golf game," said Coordinator Ann Subry.

Participating Illinois PGA professionals include Marty Schiene, Joe Lloyd, Dave Prange, Blair Subry, Randy Cochran and many others.

LaCASA is still in need of event and hole/green sponsors. Gold and silver sponsors include a foursome as part of the package. All net proceeds will benefit LaCASA's countywide sexual assault survivor support, counseling, and community education programs.

The field will be limited to 30 teams on a first-come, first-serve basis. Each team will be made up of a golf professional and four amateurs playing together.

"Whether you're a low or high handicapper, this golf event offers a lot of fun and excitement," Subry said. "You'll be supporting a great cause."

A grilled buffet lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., followed by a 12:30 p.m. shotgun start. A dress dinner will follow a the day of golf. For more information, call 244-1187.
